FIRST STEPS TO APPLY SANCTIONS TAKEN

GREEK GENERAL BY BLOODLESS STROKE REVIVES MONARCHY

National Assembly Decries Return of King George II From Exile in England—Plebiscite Will Give People Chance to Register Opinion—Martial Law but No Violence

ATHENS, Oct. 10 (AP).—Greece rejected her eleven-year-old Republic tonight in a swift royalist coup d'etat, capped by a rousing vote of the National Assembly restoring the monarchy. Amid scenes of wild rejoicing in the National Assembly Building—once the Royal Palace—the nation's lawmakers decreed the return of King George II from exile in England.

Then, despite their approval of restoration, the assemblymen decided to go on with the nation-wide plebiscite on the question on November 3 in order to give the people a chance to express their opinion.

KONDYLIS IS REGENT
General George Kondylis, who seized the reins of government in a swift and bloodless stroke today, was named regent until the King comes back.

(In London the King, who abandoned the throne on December 18, 1923, dined calmly at his hotel with his aide-de-camp, Major Leveson, and awaited official news of the restoration.)

Crowds in the packed assembly galleries joined in wild applause for the vote of restoration. The Archbishop of Athens, who previously had blessed the proceedings, led the rejoicing.

DRAMATIC SUDDENNESS
Kondylis, the former Minister of War, ended the controversy over restoration of the monarchy with dramatic suddenness today. He forced the resignation of the Government of Premier Tsaldaris, proclaimed martial law and three troops about public buildings, but not a shot was fired.

Although everything was quiet, the curfew rang over Greece at 10 p.m. and army patrols were active in the streets of Athens and Salonika. Authorities said fears of action by extremists, especially Communists, made martial law necessary.

MORE TOLL OFF ALASKAN COAST

Halibut Fishing Boats in Trouble, Machinery Sunk And Lowlands Flooded

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Oct. 10 (AP).—Prevailing bad weather took more toll in Southeastern Alaska waters today, although the storm which hit the Bethel area of Western Alaska yesterday, several hundred miles from here, had subsided.

The former halibut boat Venus, Captain William Mueller, now a salmon packer, was limping toward Ketchikan after striking a rock near Cape Pole. The salvage tug Aigle arrived here from Prince Rupert, B.C., bound for Cordova to aid the Canadian halibut Lysekil, in trouble near there.

MACHINERY SUNK
A salvage outfit also left here tonight to attempt to raise a scowload of construction machinery, sunk near Idles during yesterday's storm.

Meanwhile, reports from Bethel were that the high tide had inundated lowland areas and had swept away a number of native houses, as well as damaging a large dock on the Kuskokwim River. No loss of life, however, was reported, and it was decided that the services of the coast guard cutter Northland, which had started for the area, were not needed.

RUNS FIVE MILES WITH NO DRIVER

With Fireman Dead and Engineer Unconscious Locomotive Backs Out of Crash

CORDELE, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—It's fireman dead and the engineer unconscious at his post, a runaway locomotive ran backward for five miles today before it stopped of its own accord.

The engine was backing in the yard here when a loose box car crashed into the cab, knocking it out of line and pinning fireman J. A. Bearden, fifty, against the boiler. Scalded and crushed, he was found dead in his shattered cab. The engineer, W. M. Butler, received a broken leg and possible internal injuries.

The crash opened the throttle of the locomotive and it back out of the yard under full steam.

Ethiopians Make Advances Across Eritrean Border

Reports From Asmara Say Two Major Attacks Being Made in Italian Territory—Ring of Warriors Being Thrown About Addis Ababa to Protect Capital—Bombing Continues

(Copyright, 1935, by the Hearst News Agency)

ASMASA, Eritrea, Oct. 10.—Two major Ethiopian attacks directed against towns at extreme opposite ends of this Italian colony were reported under tonight, according to unconfirmed information received at army headquarters here.

One Ethiopian force was advancing up the Selti River Valley toward Tessenet, in the far west of Eritrea near the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan border, while a second was heading toward Asseb, on the coast of the Red Sea near French Somaliland, the reports said.

Skirmishes between troops of Ethiopia's Tigre Province chief, Ras Seyoum, and blackshirt troops in this sector were reported in the Marium Valley, ten miles northeast of Asmara.

The Ethiopian retreat headed for this shelter, but met opposition on the way, it was learned. Ethiopian troops were reported to be in the Marium Valley, ten miles northeast of Asmara.

Telephone Can Send Automatic Call to Police and Firemen

Sees Burglar Come in and Rings for Help Through Ingenious Use of Hidden Mirrors and Infra-Red Rays

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP).—A telephone that "sees" burglars, rings the police station and calls for help while the family sleeps was demonstrated today to telephone men.

Without so much as a human finger to guide the dial or lift the receiver, the phone has the "cops" on the wire as soon as the intruder is in the house—and the thief is none the wiser.

"This is an emergency call," the hidden in the wall along with a electric watchdog says, when the phone picks up their receiver. "There are burglars in John Jones' house at 130 West Main Street."

TWICE REPEATED
In case the police shouldn't get it at first, the voice repeats the message a couple of times. Then it hangs up and calls another number—wherever the householder thinks ought to know about it.

As explained to the annual convention of the United States Independent Telephone Association by Henry Herie, electrical engineer of Short Hills, N.J., the magic phone works like this:

A photo-electric cell apparatus is placed in the room where the burglar enters, passes one of the mirrors and intercepts an infra-red ray. Automatically the phone starts dialing the police number, and a phonograph record says its piece.

The phone works just as well as a fire alarm. When smoke intercepts the invisible ray, the phone calls the fire department.

DISCOURAGES U.S. TRADING WITH ITALY

Cordell Hull Issues Carefully Worded Warning to Business Interests

EXPORTERS WILL REVIEW QUESTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP).—Apparently seeking to discourage trade with Italy and Ethiopia, Secretary of State Hull today projected to the United States the "profitable" economic opportunities embraced in world peace.

"Such risky and temporary trade" as Americans might maintain with the combatants he sought to contrast pointedly with the business possibilities inherent in international peace.

Then the secretary added, in carefully-phrased language, that President Roosevelt's warning against transactions of any character with Italy and Ethiopia "certainly was not intended to encourage transactions with belligerents."

WORLD TRADE IMPORTANT
"Our people might well realize that the universal state of business uncertainty and suspense on account of the war is seriously handicapping business between all countries, and that the sooner the war is terminated the sooner the restoration and stabilization of business in all parts of the world, which is infinitely more important than trade with belligerents, will be brought about," he said.

EXPORTERS TO MEET
NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—Friday was set tonight as the tentative date on which shippers, exporters, manufacturers and steamship line executives will meet to discuss for the discussion of President Roosevelt's manifesto on trading with belligerent nations.

A meeting today sent an invitation to Secretary of State Hull to address the general meeting.

NO SIGN OF ALARM
GENOA, Italy, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Italian liner Rex, with 1,500 passengers, mostly Americans, sailed tonight for New York. Steamship sources said the warning of President Roosevelt, the United States, advising Americans that they traveled on Italian boats at their own risk, apparently had not affected traffic.

WILL SUE FOR MORE CHARITY

Bought House on Relief and Objects to Stoppage of Payments

CALGARY, Oct. 10 (AP).—John Ster, Hungarian relief recipient, struck off Calgary relief rolls when he was revealed he had purchased a house while on relief, said tonight he would take his case to court.

Ster, who has drawn $1,445 in relief quotas since February, 1932, and has paid out $1,308 as monthly payments, insurance and taxes on his home, stated he would attempt to force the city to restore his relief payments.

ACQUIRED BY THIEF
Claiming he is a victim of injustice, Ster asserted the home was acquired legally through theft and good management. Two married daughters who lived with him had paid him rent, he added.

City relief officials said Ster will be allowed to keep his equity in the property and no action will be taken. He had conformed to all legal requirements having informed the relief department of the rent payments from his daughters.

Taken from relief rolls along with Ster were his wife and two children.

Man Injured at Campbell River Succumbs—Others Are Recovering in Hospital

CAMPBELL RIVER, Oct. 10 (AP).—Harold Becklund, most seriously hurt of those injured yesterday when the railway caboose in which they were riding crashed into a logging boom, died today in the hospital here. His legs were badly crushed and one had to be amputated.

Five other men brought to the hospital after the accident were reported recovering. They suffered cracked ribs, cuts and bruises. A half-dozen others of the thirty-five loggers in the caboose at the time were treated for cuts and bruises.

BATTLED IN STEEP PASS

Eye-Witness Tells of Heroic Fight Before Capture of Aduwa

(Copyright, 1935, by the Hearst News Agency)

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY. ADUWA, Oct. 10 (AP).—The first eyewitness account of the fall of Aduwa, a town in the highlands of Ethiopia, was obtained by Havas tonight as Italian generals were holding a council of war in preparation for a drive southward into Tigre Province's highest mountain country and through its thorny ravines.

The battle which ended in capture of the "city of vengeance" was compared to the historic engagement at Thermopylae, narrow pass between Thessaly and Locris, where Leonidas and his 300 Spartans tried to stem the tide of the Persian invasion in 480 B.C.

At the head of these troops was a young Italian lieutenant. Lying in ambush behind a sharp cliff was a little band of valiant Ethiopians. As the Acaris approached, the defence opened fire and the lieutenant fell.

He was replaced by his adjutant about thirty-five feet farther along the pass the adjutant also was shot. Then an Acaris sergeant took command. The ranks were closed and the fearless natives drove forward into the teeth of the Ethiopian fire. The defending warriors were cut to pieces. The pass seemed clear.

LOSS WOULD BE THREE MILLIONS

Estimate Made of Cost to Canada By Application of Sanctions Against Italy

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (AP).—Application of League of Nations sanctions against Italy would cost Canada loss of export trade worth $3,260,000 last year, official trade figures disclosed today.

Canada's trade with Italy, fostered by a most-favored-nation treaty signed in 1923, brought $2,300,000 worth of Italian goods into this country last year. During the first five months this year the $15 million sent Italy $1,887,882 worth of goods and received from the Mediterranean kingdom $1,422,284 worth.

Figures show that 47.2 per cent of the Dominion's exports to Italy for the fiscal year ended last March 31 were raw materials, while 19 per cent were partially manufactured and 33.4 per cent fully manufactured.

STILL FRIENDLY TO THE PEOPLE

But Determined to Thwart Aggression of Fascist Government, Says Minister

(Copyright, 1935, by the Hearst News Agency)

LONDON, Oct. 10 (CP-Havas).—Lord Halifax, Secretary for War, repeated tonight in a speech at Sheffield that Britain is still friendly toward the Italian people, but determined to thwart the designs of the Fascist Government on Ethiopia.

Britain must see no time in putting her defenses in order, he added.

Asked what steps the Government be said "What the next steps are going to be we cannot say. What sanctions are going to be imposed I do not know. But I refuse to believe there is any government, however powerful, that there is any individual however headstrong and impetuous and blind who cannot be affected by the fact that in the councils of the world they have been found guilty."

League Covenant Articles Puzzle Expert Lawyers

Several Main Problems Arise in Defining "Resort To War"—Learned Reports Presented by Committees on Various Questions Arising In Regard to Application of Sanctions

By GEORGE HAMILTON

GENEVA, Oct. 10 (P)—Legal pundits of the League and its members are struggling with baffling problems of the covenant. They turn on Article XVI—the article on sanctions.

Article XVI provides that if a member of the League resorts to war in disregard to its obligations under Articles XII, XIII or XV, it shall ipso facto be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the League. Sanctions of the League are to be applied by the assembly in 1921 are followed, the sanctions will at first be light, beginning probably with the withdrawal of heads of diplomatic missions, but the sanctions will gradually and steadily tighten.

WHAT IS WAR?

But what is a "resort to war"? If Italy, under Article XVI committed an act of war against all other members of the League she is in a state of war with them all. Three other main problems arise:

(1) When must sanctions actually be applied?
(2) Whose duty is it to decide when sanctions are to be applied?
(3) What types of sanctions should be applied?

On all these questions, committees have deliberated and presented learned reports.

In an authoritative study submitted to the preparatory conference for the disarmament conference, M. De Brouckere frankly admitted the difficulty of determining when a country resorts to war—assuming of course there is no formal declaration of war by the aggressor state.

NECESSARY CONDITIONS

Apart from this eventuality, M. De Brouckere holds that two conditions are necessary:

(1) One country must have committed an act of war against another.
(2) The latter country must have admitted the existence of a state of war.

Further, the second country must have justification for taking up this attitude.

"Every act of violence," Mr. de Brouckere wrote, "does not necessarily justify its victim in resorting to war. If a detachment of soldiers goes a few yards over the frontier in a colony remote from any vital centre; if the circumstances show quite clearly that the aggression was due to an error on the part of some subaltern officer; if the central authorities of the aggressor state reprimand the subordinate concerned as soon as they are apprised of the facts; if they cause the invasion to cease, offer apologies and compensation and take steps to prevent any recurrence of such incidents—then it cannot be maintained that there has been an act of war and that the invaded country has reasonable grounds for mobilizing its army and marching upon the enemy capital.

LEGITIMATE DEFENCE

"Legitimate defence means the adoption of measures proportionate to the seriousness of the attack and justified by the imminence of the danger. If a country flagrantly exceeded these limits, even if it were affronted by some incident of little intrinsic importance, it would come in actual fact the real aggressor, and it would be only fair that that country should be made the object of sanctions provided for in Article XVI."

Now if, under Article XVI, Italy committed an act of war against all other members of the League, she is necessarily in a state of war with them. "The unilateral action of the defaulting state," reads the Assembly resolution of 1921, "cannot create a state of war. It merely entitles the other members of the League to resort to acts of war or to declare themselves in a state of war with the Covenant-breaking state, but it is in accordance with the spirit of the Covenant that the League of Nations should attempt, at least at the outset, to avoid war and to restore peace by economic pressure."

UNDISPUTED DOCTRINE

"Taken as a whole, this doctrine is almost undisputed today," comments Mr. de Brouckere. "Can we say," he adds, "that a country cannot resort to war unless another country takes some part in the matter—a part which may, indeed, be entirely legitimate, and may even be dictated by imperative necessity?"

Can we admit that it takes two to make a war, as it does to make peace? If we refuse to accept this inference, we are bound to admit that a country can resort to war without there being a state of war—a distinctly strange situation.

"We find in history many instances of acts of violence and aggression which have not led to war, either because the victim was too weak or too faint-hearted to offer any resistance, or because the matter was settled by negotiation or through the mediation of a third party, before a state of war was established. The fact is that a state of war does not really exist until the country attacked takes up the challenge and thus admits the existence of a state of war."

"Every act of violence," Mr. de Brouckere wrote, "does not necessarily justify its victim in resorting to war. If a detachment of soldiers goes a few yards over the frontier in an elevation overlooking the narrow passage began to sweep the advance troops with machine gun fire. More than 100 Ascaris fell wounded.

The sergeant called a halt while the men took cover and first aid was given. Then a fierce pitched battle began, and the outcome was in doubt until Italian speed tanks came up from the rear and tilted the scales in favor of the offensive.

Finally the advance pushed its way through the mass and a narrow passage was within reach. On October 5, under a broiling noonday sun, the Ascaris marched into the city where they found the headquarters of the Italian consul abandoned and all its fittings wrecked.

Italy, he disclosed, plans upon getting necessities from Germany through Austria and does not fear economic sanctions. Oil, he added, "will be obtained 'from some other nation' which could send it to Italy through the Reich."

own difficulties in the application of sanctions.

Tecle Hawariat, Ethiopian delegate, concluded the discussion with an expression of deep gratitude on behalf of his Government for the action of the Council and the Assembly. He pressed that early action was essential. Expressions of moral censure or verbal manifestations of mere disapprobation were not enough, he declared.

Innocent people were being exterminated by the implements of slaughter; the barbarous nature of which Ethiopia had not even suspected, said Hawariat.

NOT AT ANY PRICE
Ethiopia was ready at any time to co-operate in the cessation of hostilities. His country was ready to conclude an honorable peace, but, Hawariat solemnly added, "let no one misunderstand my meaning. It will not yield to force. It will not accept any condition which gives a premium to its aggressor, for that would be a challenge to international morality."

ITALIANS STUPEFIED
ROME, Oct. 10 (P)—The action of the Assembly of the League of Nations in voting sanctions against Italy "has changed nothing," an official Italian spokesman said tonight. Italy is following her same programme in Africa, he asserted, the one "she has moved in all along in the full light of day."

The Italian people, however, are "stupefied" at the action, he stated. Italy "kept the world informed of every move" and had a right to suppose that the world's silence and failure to act gave her consent to her policy of conquest.

WILL REVIEW PAY INCREASES

Saanich Council Seeks Full Report on Increments To Teachers

The Saanich Council last night ordered a complete report on proposed increments to high school teachers from the municipal school board.

The council requested the school board to send a committee to the council to discuss the complete matter.

The increases totaled $1,700 per year on seventeen teachers.

Reeve Crouch and other members agreed that increases to teachers at this time were inconsistent with the policy of economy followed by the council.

"It's a racket," commented Councilor L. C. Hagan.

Reeve Crouch said that other municipal employees had been cut. At the same time, newspapers were on the verge of relief, he declared.

COMMITTEE MET
The British Columbia committee on state health insurance was in session here yesterday, to consider its private report to the Government. Between sittings of the committee, Dr. Weir issued the following statement:

CONSERVATIVES STAGING RALLY

Col. Nelson Spencer, Mrs. F. P. Burden, W. H. Youhill Support D. B. Plunkett

Final rallies in the Federal election campaign in Victoria will be held today and tomorrow. The closing rally of the Victoria Conservative Association in the interests of D. B. Plunkett will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium, commencing at 8 o'clock this evening.

Speakers for the occasion will be Colonel Nelson Spencer, Mrs. F. P. Burden, W. H. Youhill, and the candidate, Mr. Plunkett. R. D. Harvey, chairman of the speakers' committee of the organization, will be in the chair.

On Saturday the final rallies of the Liberals, C.C.F. and Reconstruction groups will be held in city meetings, arrangements for which will be announced later.

Brigadier-General J. A. Clark, previously announced to speak at the Conservative rally this evening, was detained in Vancouver, where he is appearing today as counsel in a court hearing. Col. Nelson Spencer, former member for Vancouver in the British Columbia Legislature, will take his place.

HEALTH PLANS ARE DISPUTED
Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir Differs With Canadian Hospitals' Association on B.C. Bill

Hon. G. M. Weir, Ph.D., Provincial Secretary in the Pattullo Cabinet, defended the British Columbia state health insurance plan yesterday, in a statement rapping what the Canadian Press had reported as taking place at an Ottawa meeting of the Canadian Hospitals' Association.

The Ottawa dispatch, carried in Coast papers on Wednesday, had attributed to delegates at the hospitals meeting the statement that both British Columbia and Alberta state health plans had been condemned as actuarially unsound; that the initial cost of the British Columbia plan would be $12.50 per head per annum; and that a committee of the association had been formed to study the costs involved and the relation of these plans to hospital upkeep.

NOT CASH BENEFITS
"Actuarial calculations are vital only with respect to cash benefits. It was never contemplated that cash benefits would be introduced until some years after the inception of the scheme. There is adequate time for further careful study of this aspect of the problem, and Mr. Hugh Wolfenden of Toronto, one of Canada's leading actuaries, is now engaged in this study.

"The report from Ottawa further states that there could be no reliable information on health insurance costs until completion of a study undertaken by the Canadian Medical Association. This is patently absurd. This sounds like north Indian bias by the doctors, with a vengeance," Dr. Weir concluded.

League Sanctions to Determine Future of International Policy

Catastrophe or Better Understanding of World Affairs May Be Outcome of League's Action, Declares Professor Soward in Lecture Here

FUTURE developments in the Italo-Ethiopia dispute and the co-operative application of sanctions against Italy as an aggressor nation may bring about another world catastrophe, or may be the first step in a better international understanding, was the opinion expressed by Prof. H. F. Soward, head of the history department at the University of British Columbia, in his lecture here last night.

Professor Soward was lecturing to a big audience at the Girls' Central School on "Wider Implications of the Italo-Ethiopia Dispute" under the auspices of the University Extension Association.

ULTIMATE OUTCOME
The ultimate outcome of the general application of sanctions had a score of possibilities impossible to segregate at this time. The ramifications of international diplomacy penetrated very deeply into the nations involved, and there were so many pawns on the chessboard that conflict of ideas might readily create additional crises that could easily lead to serious consequences, Professor Soward inferred.

The League of Nations was at the crossroads and was facing its third real test. If the application of sanctions were successful in averting a world catastrophe, the world may see there is a chance for peace through the co-operation of nations. On the other hand, the speaker said, defeat of the purpose of the League would result in setting back the work of that organization for a number of years.

Professor Soward made three distinct divisions in his lecture. The first part he devoted to a discussion of the factors preceding the World War and the history of the present Italo-Ethiopia dispute. The second part included the situation as it existed at the present time. League intervention, the application of sanctions and what they meant, and third, the results possible and the future outlook from an international standpoint. He made no predictions.

Although the League had the Ethiopian situation under its jurisdiction for nearly two months before action was taken because of the involved relations between world powers, it was not until Italy refused the offer of Sir Anthony Eden of territory that Great Britain realized that Italy meant business. This act of refusal preceded the British ships into the Mediterranean. The oil concession to American interests, Professor Soward intimated, might have been an attempt by the Ethiopian Emperor to involve big United States financial interests in the hope of securing sympathetic support from that country.

The attempt on the part of Italy to acquire Ethiopia has two aspects, moral and economic. National pride and the determination of Mussolini to rebuild the Roman Empire which created the right atmosphere for foreign invasion was one, and the other was the endeavor of Italy to exaggerate the danger from the outside in order to cover up some of the economic troubles besetting the nation and the Government.

By the invasion of Ethiopia, Italy

Duce Toys With New Lion

the speaker said, had violated three treaties, the League Covenant, the Kellogg Pact and the bi-lateral agreement between Italy and Ethiopia of 1928 which provided for arbitration of disputes.

The main problems confronting Italy were, surplus of population, which formed a pretext for the invasion rather than as a basis; lack of access to raw materials, and financial difficulties.

Italy is poor, the speaker said. In 1934 the nation was unable to meet one-quarter of the year's budget. Five years of successive unbalanced budgets had made it hard to raise money to meet import payments. The reduction of the gold content of the lira to about 30 per cent had also seriously affected the foreign exchange.

STATUS OF NATIONS
Professor Soward discussed some of the probable effects concerning the status of individual nations. He considered Germany the real menace to the rest of Europe. With Italy crippled through the pressure of sanctions, the acquisition of Austria by Germany was made easier. France had warring factions in the political field that constituted a grave problem for that country. Great Britain occupied a good position through her willingness to combine with other nations in the application of sanctions against Italy. The United States, as well as other countries, might be called on to face critical situations if sanctions were not obeyed to the letter. One of those situations might be the example: If Canada refused to sell nickel to Italy, would the United States be prepared to prohibit the export of the raw material if purchased from Canada by an American corporation?

RACIAL FEELINGS
Professor Soward gave a few minutes of his address to the question of the effect of the present dispute on the colored races in other parts of the world. He maintained that colored races were also getting the spirit of nationalism, and it was within the realm of possibilities that the colored people might, at some time, endeavor to secure complete freedom from Western control. Recent wars had taught the colored race that the whites were in no way invincible, he declared.

REMINDED OF BEAUHARNOIS

disallowed was by a Liberal Government at the request of the Government of Nova Scotia, he said.

Canada was the "most favored country of all the world," Prime Minister Bennett said.

Canada had made great progress out of the depression, but great problems remained to be solved. "If experience is of value, if men learn from the doing, then we should be better able to solve Canada than any other person in it."

Fighting "the greatest battle the world has ever seen," Canada had been built into a nation out of a wilderness by a population of less than 1,000,000 people. "Throughout it all, the great and historic Conservative party has played its traditional part and will continue to do so, benefiting from the lessons of the past."

BONDS FOR REFUNDING
Between now and 1937, not only were the Empire agreements to be renewed but $750,000,000 of bonds would mature and would have to be refunded.

"How shall we do it? We have done so well in the past that we have saved interest payments to the extent of $17,000,000 a year. Who can do these things better for you?"

Mr. King has spoken of the $1,000,000 stabilization fund for dairy products as "a bribe." Mr. Bennett observed, "But I remember he did not divide the House on that measure when it went through Parliament."

The burden of Canada's railway problem was too great to be endured much longer, and one definite plan of the Government was to seek a solution that would preserve the roads from insolvency and save the jobs of those who operate them. But there would be no major railway move taken, such as amalgamation, without a direct mandate from the people.

CHARGES REFUTED
Referring to charges by Mr. King that Conservative policies had cost 14,000 border Canadians their jobs in the United States, Mr. Bennett read a record to show that 12,000 of these Canadians lost their jobs in the United States while Mr. King was Prime Minister, while 1,500 who had lost their border-crossing rights

REAL ESTATE SALES GAIN

Increase for Nine-Month Period Is Nearly Quarter-Million Dollars More

An increase of nearly a quarter million dollars in real estate sales in the city of Victoria during the first nine months of this year, compared with the corresponding period of last year, was reported by George O'Neil, city assessor and collector, yesterday.

Up to the end of September sales amounted to $82,645, as against $68,420 for the first nine months of 1934, or an increase of $24,225. Sales during September passed the $100,000 mark, surpassing the sales for August by approximately $6,000. The September sales amounted to $101,645.

February was the best month of the period, registering sales amounting to $158,083, while January topped the list with $116,915. September is third on the list.

HOUSE MUST BE PUT IN ORDER

Prof. J. King Gordon Calls Upon Canadians to Wipe Up "Political Humbug"

"The time has come for Canadians to say that in the name of a decent social order, the time has arrived to wipe up the political humbug and put their house in order," declared Prof. J. King Gordon, C.C.F. candidate in Victoria, in addressing a meeting in his interests in the Hampshire Road Hall last evening.

"That is the challenge to the C.C.F. today," he added. "The time has passed for delay. Canadians can and must take back for the people the economic life of the country. That is the issue that faces the electorate on October 14."

Professor Gordon referred to election time as the period which came to the British people when they imagined they were free and could exercise their democratic rights. The only important issues in the election, he said, were the economic issues. This was so because only the economic issues were of importance in our everyday life.

MUST PLAN SYSTEM
Economies, said the speaker, was not an idealistic study. It was the duty of the people to take the system under which they lived and plan and shape it for use. "If this were not done, it would, as in the

CHRISTIAN ETHICS
Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., told the meeting the C.C.F. or Socialism was simply putting into force in politics a system of Christian ethics. He felt that an outstanding man like Prof. King Gordon would be an ideal representative for the city of Victoria, which required such a representative. He condemned as the requirement for a member the ability to get large grants for his constituency. This was not the practice in the Old Land, he declared. Nigel Morgan acted as chairman. There was a good attendance and the speakers received a very attentive hearing.

CUMBERSOME MACHINERY

The League of Nations is ponderous and slow-moving, and any decision it may reach in the Italo-Ethiopian war situation will only be implemented after even more prolonged discussion than has yet ensued and when hostilities have been under way for many weeks. The reason for the seemingly snail-like pace of League procedure is due to the provisions of Article XV. There is a routine to be gone through that seems exasperating at a time like this, but it is one to which the League is bound. The fact that one or two or more of the Great Powers may be pledged to a course of action cannot hurry deliberations.

In the first place a situation has arisen where a rupture between two members of the League has ensued. Neither arbitration nor judicial settlement was effected. The League, therefore, in the first instance, had to submit the matter to the Council. The Council met after hostilities had commenced. It made a statement giving facts and explanations about the dispute and voted in favor of the imposition of sanctions on Italy. The matter has now been referred to the Assembly which constitutes all members signatory to the Covenant of the League. In other words, although the Council favors sanctions these will not be imposed until voted upon by the Assembly. If the Assembly approves the Council's decision, then sanctions will be imposed, but there will remain the necessity for further discussion as to what will be the nature of the sanctions and the extent to which they will be applied.

The machinery of the League of Nations seems cumbersome but has possibly been designed in this way to obviate, so far as possible, the danger of breeding internal disputes because of any precipitate action. It is certain that the Assembly will vote overwhelmingly in favor of sanctions. The extent to which these will be applied will give rise to many differences of opinion among the nations and there will be further difficulties about reaching anything like a unanimous opinion. In fact, unanimity is impossible because Austria and Hungary, and possibly some few other of the smaller nations, do not favor the imposition of sanctions against Italy in any manner. Meanwhile the war goes on, though the goal of the League of Nations is to bring it to an end. That goal will probably eventually be translated into a desire to make the results of the war nugatory, a matter which would prove exceptionally difficult in the face of a victorious Italy.

THE GOAL OF SOCIALISM

"Planned economy" is nothing but regimentation; regimentation is dragging of the private individual into what he may and what he may not do; dragging implies dictatorship, and that is the goal of Socialism. Human society, at least in British lands, rebels against regimentation. It will not be dragged; it opposes dictatorships of all patterns. The hardest and most up-hill fight that Socialism has to make is to persuade the people that they should become rubber stamps in the social and economic scheme. Socialism is promulgated under a cloud of grandiloquent phrases designed as a veil to hide from the people what is the ultimate purpose. Instead of regimentation the words "planned economy" are used. Instead of "dragging" the "common good" is spoken of in an unctuous way. Socialism never mentions dictatorship, save when preached by such a firebrand as Sir Stafford Cripps.

The ideal of Socialism is perhaps best tested in the lives of the individuals who are its protagonists. There have been countless instances of those individuals relaxing its discipline and dishonoring its flag. They do not set the example of what they preach. They do not plan their own productive efforts for use and not for profit. They have not instituted a Socialist society in their private lives and in their dealings one with another. In other words, there are so many of them who preach the political doctrine with their tongues in their cheeks that the folly of it all is transparent. They have themselves become involved in a mass of generalities in their endeavors to explain any methods by which their scheme of government could be brought to fruition. They talk of a planned economy without one detail of explanation about how it could be evolved. Anyone subscribing to Socialistic doctrines as explained by the platform speakers on the subject in the present Federal election campaign would be a type willing to take a leap in the dark. There never was a political doctrine put forward so vacuous in its expression, so devoid of planning, so suffused with generalities and so obviously designed by political adventurers. The latter fact is borne testimony to by the knowledge that it is only a certain set of economic conditions which generate the clouds and whirlwinds of the Socialistic atmosphere.

LIBERAL TACTICS

The robust confidence of a few months ago, the arrogant assurance of an overwhelming Liberal victory at the polls, even the party morale itself, the Liberal "will to victory," have undergone a change, have suffered a sea-change not unlike that which occurs in the life of a small boy who has been in mischief, has been caught at it, and now endeavors to avert if possible the consequences of his misdeeds. That the Liberals are indeed in a painfully anxious situation is evident from the character of their new political tactics. They realize that their party has been seriously reduced in fighting strength owing to the appearance in the field of several new parties or factions. Every effort is now being made to persuade the members of those parties to return to their former allegiance. Mr. Mackenzie King, speaking in Toronto the other night, makes an impassioned appeal to them. His henchman, Mr. Mackenzie, in Vancouver assures them that the Liberals will cheerfully accept 80 per cent of the Woodsworth policy, and pathetically asks what is the remaining 20 per cent between people who ought to be friends because they all desire to defeat Mr. Bennett. Mr. McGee addresses himself particularly to the better elements in the Woodsworth party, warning them that they are being made the tools of Communism.

Apparently Mr. McGee does not realize that if he can convince the followers of Mr. Woodsworth that they are pursuing a course involving grave danger to Canada by their affiliation with Communism they will be far more likely to ally themselves with the Conservative party as the one party that constitutes a safe rallying ground for all who are opposed to dangerous experiments with our now greatly improved trade arrangements, our safe and sane banking system, and our constitutional and legal safeguards against the insidious activities of foreign revolutionaries. A few months ago Mr. King was content to sit patiently on the side-lines, confident that the depression would overthrow the Government. Now he realizes that the Conservative Party, true to its traditions, has no intention of accepting defeat by the depression. The depression, as well as the people know very well, has not been due to local causes, but to world causes, not to Conservative policy or to any mismanagement in Canada, but to the operation of factors in a far wider field. It has affected all lands, but has affected Canada far less than almost any other country in the world. Accordingly Mr. King now decides to do something more than idly await the issue. He proposes to gather together within his cave of Adulm all the discontented and recalcitrant elements of the population that can be induced to unite in an attempt to defeat the Government and so achieve for himself a victory which a short time ago he looked forward to as an assured certainty.

The Conservative Party can afford to await the issue with good hope and reasonable confidence, leaving to its opponents the exploitation of discontent, all heresies and hysterics, and all partisan appeals to prejudice and class consciousness.

FAMILY LIFE IN RUSSIA

Soviet Russia as time has gone on has found that under the Bolshevik administration family life is being destroyed—that life which is the sheet anchor of civilization. The Government there has now passed several new laws to lighten the matrimonial bonds. When religion was dispensed with in Russia those bonds were loosened as a part of a policy regarded as essential to the Bolshevik social system. Eighteen years' experience in this way has proved anything but satisfactory. The practice of allowing a husband or a wife to enter a registry office without warning and get a divorce immediately, without even informing the divorcee, has produced conditions of immorality unprecedented in any other country. Under the new measures the right of divorce without the consent of the other party and without any judicial procedure remains intact, but both parties must now appear together before the registrar. Otherwise the one who seeks a divorce must wait until the authorities have informed the other partner what is afoot and invited his or her presence before the registrar. In the case where such a partner cannot be found there is a delay of six months granted, after which the divorce is obtained without further formalities. There are, as well, other new laws designed to restore family life which has so largely disappeared in Russia. Parents hereafter must assume greater responsibility for their children. There is a liability of three years' imprisonment in the case of abandonment or malicious refusal to pay alimony. Thus divorce has been made a little less easy and there is an attempt to enforce some of the obligations of family life. Doubtless as the experience of the Bolshevik experiment grows there will be further laws to undo what was done to consummate the Communist social system which has proved so abject a failure.

Note and Comment

By R. R. D.

Their feet through faithless leather met the dirt, And often changed their principles when they hurt.

—Young.

"William by the grace of God defender of the faith." The champion of the faith and liberties of the people is, of course, Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, and if the Liberals are victorious and the Bank of Canada be delivered into the hands of the politicians, there will, of course, be a new coinage bearing the inscription printed above. Down with Bennett the dictator and up with King the defender of the liberties of the people and the independence of Parliament! All Tories are traitors again! All Liberals are warned again that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." We have watched with interest, mingled with amusement, the political career of the leader of the Opposition for many years, and the burden of his song has never varied. "King or Chaos!" That is the new slogan, revised and brought up to date.

A humorous contemporary suggests that the slogan be amended and put in the form of "King and Chaos!" But the right hon. champion of freedom is notoriously destitute of all sense of humor, almost as destitute of a sense of humor as he is of ideas. The only human attribute he possesses is a supreme gift of pouring forth words and saying nothing. "King or Chaos!" There is chaos in Canada already, but this chaotic condition is limited to the following of Mr. King and to the politically heterogeneous elements whose votes and influence he solicits in a characteristically sly way at every meeting he addresses.

Consider how he purged over and stroked Mr. Gerry Granat McGee after all the Liberals of British Columbia, including the members of the Government the Mayor of Vancouver was elected to support, had publicly repudiated him as decisively as Mr. McGee declared he was going to repudiate the debts of the city he was elected to reduce from the financial chaos to financial order. Mr. King told Mr. McGee to be of good cheer, for after all he, too, was bursting with radical ideas, and gave the wildest radical of them all (within the compass of the gospel of peace and goodwill), his political pontifical blessing. When all his comrades in the faith had disowned poor Gerry, Mr. King adopted him, absolved him of all offence, and reinstated him in good political, if not exactly good economic, standing. Mr. King's radicalism is like his free trade principles. It can be doctored for certain occasions and doctored for other occasions. The chances of Gerry's election are said to be remote, but the results of elections are proverbially uncertain. The roaring radical may be elected, and Mr. King may need his vote, and some more, in the new House of Commons.

A statesman of another generation, probably a statesman of renown at least as great as that of Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, and certainly of acknowledged ability and precedence, is reported to have exclaimed after reviewing a political situation, "After me the deluge!" That great statesman passed on his way, as all must do, and after him there was no deluge. Disorder and darkest night is suggested by the imposing word chaos; but there is another word which suggests order and light; that word is cosmos. Would it be pertinent to suggest that under the rule of Rt. Hon. R. Bennett cosmos has prevailed, that Mr. Bennett has controlled the cosmic forces, and that the leader of the Opposition has expressed the views and advocated the principles for whatever they may be of the chaotic forces?

The answer to the question is the condition in Canada today compared to the conditions in most other countries. Mr. King is a Doctor of Philosophy, but in the more important sphere of practical and applied political science he is merely a quack doctor. He can call bogey spirits from the vasty deep, but when he conjures up the spirit of a Canadian political dictator, he is merely giving publicity to political ballyhoo or party tosh. It is the constitutional duty of a Prime Minister under our political system of procedure to control Parliament. The Prime Minister has executed that duty; he has not exceeded it by assuming the role of a dictator. That is why we have had cosmos in Canada, and why under law and order there has been steady progress and present promise of improved conditions in trade, commerce and industry. There are not remote prospects that the world may soon see demonstrations of the truth that the way of dictators is hard. But there is an illusion in the mind of the leader of the Opposition which, if put to the test, might be more disastrous to Canada than an attempt to establish a dictatorship. That political will-of-the-wisp, is the idea that the economic salvation not only of this country, but of all countries, can be achieved by Canada offering herself up as a sacrificial goat on the altar of free trade. We shall be told that Mr.

King does not really mean to do any such thing. But if he does not mean to do any such thing, why does he show a deep contempt for the intelligence of the people by expecting them to gulp down such bait.

Coming and Going

A local woman asked us on Wednesday afternoon why there were so many parking spaces. Perhaps it was because the stores were closed. Conservatives claim that they have found new markets for Canadian products. Liberals assert that they will restore markets the Conservatives have lost. C.P. followers say that no other nation wants Canada's goods. What is there left for the Reconstruction Party to say? A pompous Victorian boasted that the secret was to stick to King Alfred. "I suppose you will be telling us next that your ancestors were in Noah's Ark," remarked a disgusted friend. "No," he replied, "they had a boat of their own. ## The Old Snaffler Himself

Since falling victim to a "snaffler" I have been questioned from many quarters about the origin of a "snaffler." Its origin goes back some years to the days when G.B. The Colonist's official "snaffler," once "covered" the Saanich council and school board meetings until the small hours of the morning. Coming in from one of these meetings, flashlight in hand, he was accosted by M.R. as to why he was carrying a flashlight. "Been snaffler hunting," G.B. replied. "That's that," M.R. asked, "you snaffled them with a rifle, or you aroused their interest with the flashlight," G.B. replied. An obliging news editor assisted M.R. to look through out $50 Webster dictionary, and our ever-ready and penitence Encyclopedia Britannica, and finally concluded with the remark, "I'm afraid he has been pulling your leg." Hence G.B. has always been known as a "snaffler," or, in other words, as an inveterate "leg puller." So, dear readers, beware of "snafflers," particularly G.B.—P.C.R.

A race horse named Kingston a few years back ran seventy-four races at big time tracks and was never out of the money. This pony scored eighty-nine victories out of 138 starts. The long ice hockey game on record was played in 1885 with Montreal M.A.A. against Quebec. The argument lasted four hours and twenty minutes. Montreal won—John G. Anderson won over 600 golf prizes. Phil Greenwald, a professional, scored ten birdies over eighteen holes, six of them in succession.—Biggest crowd to attend an American football game was at the Southern California-Notre Dame battle in 1929 and numbered 112,912.—Dice are the oldest gaming instruments known to the world, with dominoes running a close second. ## SOCIAL CREDIT AND INFLATION

Sir,—Following up the Dean of Canterbury's lecture on Social Credit, many people have asked, "Does Social Credit mean inflation?" The Dean himself answered this question when I put it to him, thus: "Yes, inflation is brought about when more money is in circulation than there are corresponding goods to buy. The National Dividend, under Major Douglas' method, will only be issued as a result of careful accounting. Then only sufficient money or tickets will be issued to make up the gap between production and consumption. The inflation in Germany in 1922, a reflection of which people are so afraid of, was not only a result of the war, but was deliberately caused by the Social Credit Government, then in power. It did this in order to wipe out indebtedness and to ruin the middle class of bourgeoisie, the class most repugnant to Socialism.

The money issued to form the National Dividend will be created by the Government treasury, and will come neither from taxes nor loans. The backing behind this money will not be gold, but the security of the Government's increased power to produce goods and services which the people need for a higher standard of living. It will be given equally to all as a birthright, and will be in addition to wages or salaries.

The National Dividend will enable producers to sell most of their goods at home and so make unnecessary the present scramble for foreign markets which is the chief cause of war. A. S. AVERILL, Rockland Court, Victoria, B.C., October 7, 1935.

POLITICAL HISTORY—'LEST WE FORGET'

Sir,—The Conservative and Liberal Parties each accuse the other for the terrible conditions prevailing in some parts of Canada and the tremendous debt accumulated in the last thirty years. These parties call themselves governments; they should be called misgovernments. Which party was primarily responsible for the present railway debt? Was it not the Laurier Government that inaugurated the Grand Trunk Pacific, constructed at enormous cost, with tremendous profits to the contractors. What for? Chiefly to win an election. The same Government subsidized the C.N.R., paralleling the C.P.R. for long distances, and encouraged the National Railway in the expenditure of huge sums of money on railway terminals and palatial hotels.

Who created two provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta? Why, Sir Wilfrid Laurier to win an election and appease Quebec, thereby redeeming a pledge over the Manitoba School Act, which was to give these two provinces separate schools. This cost the Dominion of Canada a huge sum and added greatly to the taxation of the people. This action was unnecessary, as the Government of Manitoba was quite capable and sufficient to administer this territory. This was another political move to create Liberal voters in Saskatchewan, and to make sure that Mr. Clifford Sifton, one of Sir Wilfrid's chief lieutenants, conceived the idea of importing thousands of Galicians, also Doukhobors, who have given trouble ever since. These people were known as "Sifton's pets," the first result being that the railways got cheap labor and depressed the labor market, and eventually every decent white settler was driven out of that section of the country, as English-speaking people would not allow their children to attend their schools. This is exactly what the Liberal Government wanted, as they kept the province as a Liberal preserve, for these people from Europe did not dare to vote against the Government which brought them to the country.

Now, coming to the tariff of which we have heard so much lately, Mr. Mackenzie King says if he is elected he will lower the tariffs. That's what he says to the West and this is what the Liberal Party has been telling us and promising for the last forty years. To my certain knowledge, on one of the first occasions when he had the pleasure of hearing Sir Wilfrid Laurier speak, he was in Winnipeg about forty years ago, he said we will have "free trade" the same as it is in England. Did they get it? No. And why? Quebec would not allow them and they never lowered the tariff to any extent, which can be verified by referring to statistics.

Believe me, fellow voters, it is all camouflage this talk of Mr. Mackenzie King; he is a pastmaster of camouflage and always was. I heard him years ago tell the same old story—words and promises which were never fulfilled. He knows full well that the Quebec and "Eastern manufacturers have been allowed to ruin his Government or any other Government to lower the tariff to an extent which will ruin their industries. Don't make any mistake Westerners and Native Sons of Canada. You are ruled by the solid block of members in Quebec, elected by these people who do not understand English and hardly ever hear a speech made in English, people living under medieval laws and customs. The French, and who are not well informed of conditions in the West, so that they are no more fit to judge the true political situation than a flock of sheep. No, the Eastern manufacturers have ruled us white, and neither Liberal nor Conservative governments can do much to help us, but the difference between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Mackenzie King is that Mr. Bennett told us the truth, what he thinks he can do and what he cannot do. Mr. Mackenzie King is vacillating and says he will see. Instead of the name Liberal Party it should be called the Little Canada Party, headed by General "Wait and See."

This is a very critical period in the history of Canada, where I have resided for the last fifty years. We are at the parting of the ways. There is a great unrest among the people, especially the young men, who say, "What is wrong with Canada, a country with such potential wealth and superabundance of everything for the people. There is nothing wrong with Canada, but it is misgovernment, graft, extravagance by both political parties, political bosses electing and controlling members. There is the instance of $750,000 given out of the Beaurivault deal to the Liberal Party election funds. This kind of thing spreads from East to West and is no worse an example than that of the P.C.E. Railway deal and manipulation by the late Liberal Government under Messrs. Oliver, Pattullo and Hart. It is no wonder that the population of Canada has not increased more rapidly under such conditions. People will not come to a country which is overburdened with debt and a country which repudiates its debt. The question is, How are we going to improve the situation? In my humble opinion the Prairie Provinces must be built up. The primary industries such as general farming is the backbone of any country, and British Columbia is vitally interested, as the Prairie Provinces are our best market for fruit and lumber. How and when can we expect fair play from the East? Surely the two parties could sink their petty differences and could unite on a policy to build up the West, which would be for the general benefit of the country, otherwise it would be better for us to cut loose from these Eastern blood-suckers and work out our own salvation.

gave his hearers on Monday night, the sooner it receives decent burial the better for Canada and all concerned. Having heard the gentleman, I no longer wonder why Premier Pattullo could find no place for such a disturbing personality in his Cabinet, or that no outstanding Liberal would appear on the same platform. Ian Mackenzie said on Friday night that he came with an olive branch; evidently Mr. McGee prefers the prickly pear. It is regretted that David Lloyd George, that in the first political speech he ever made, he quoted that familiar Biblical text (and it is always dangerous for politicians to quote from the Scriptures), "Silver and gold have I none," etc. "That may be," said an old gaffer who was present, "but I do not think our young friend to be deficient in brass." Mr. McGee I understand to have a fairly good supply of all three metals. The third commodity, after having heard him, I am quite sure that he has an abundant supply.

PROVINCIAL PREMIERS

Sir,—Being cursed with only a limited amount of brain, I am absolutely confused by the political talk over the radio. Last night, October 8, I listened to eight Liberal Provincial Premiers, and gathered that Canada was in a deplorable state owing to some man Bennett, and the remedy was to vote for Mr. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader. Each speaker stressed the point that eight provinces were Liberal. Ye gods! Think of it. Eight Liberal Provincial Premiers controlled by this one man. How could one more Liberal Premier help at all? The Liberal Provincial Premiers have no control, why do they exist and make me pay taxes? A little information would be appreciated.

REFORM NEEDED SAYS ASPIRANT

A. M. Clark, Reconstructionist in Nanaimo Riding, Speaks at Lake Hill

The Conservative party pins its faith on high tariffs, and the Liberals pin their faith on low tariffs, but the Reconstruction Party, headed by Hon. Harry Stevens, through whose instrumentality the abuses existing in the present sphere of business activity were exposed, places before the electors sounder policies in the way of business reform and easier credit, coupled with an intelligent approach to unemployment and monetary reforms, declared Aubrey M. Clark, Reconstructionist candidate in the Nanaimo Federal riding, when addressing a meeting at Lake Hill last night.

He was supported on the platform by Trustee Percy E. George, Reconstructionist candidate in Victoria, Frank Partridge, past president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Major Dukes, who officiated as chairman.

TECHNOLOGICAL EXPERT
As a technological expert, Mr. Clark elucidated the plan by which money could be geared to technological advancement of the times. Mr. Clark pointed out that one-third of the people were occupied in useful occupations, and due to the efficiency of technical production, it was impossible to absorb more into useful employment under the existing economic set-up.

"Thus we have the anomaly of one-third of the people either over the employable age limit, or infirm, and another third constituting the young people thrown onto the labor market of the world through the completion of their educational studies," the speaker asserted.

"Money must be made equal to the total production of the country in order to accomplish an equal distribution of those products so necessary to the proper subsistence of the people on a standard that is commensurate with the wealth of the nation," Mr. Clark stated.

AN EASY APPROACH
"Mr. Stevens," he said, "offers an easy approach through his building scheme to tide over the interim during which the monetary system could be studied, remodeled and presented to the public for its approval."

Mr. Clark definitely stated he would not interfere or be party to any form of socialized currency that would deprive any of their property rights, financial investments or individual freedom of action.

His main object was to bring about this change by a gradual evolution in the country's economic structure, and also a remodelling of its industrial structure as it applies to employment, such changes to be made effective over a period of two years.

PAYS TRIBUTE
Mr. Clark related instances of sweat-shop labor he had seen for himself, and paid tribute to the courage and determination of Mr. Stevens, who was on the Price Spreads Commission inquiry was not allowed to disband before completing its task, and exposing in its entirety the many abuses in business practices, and the manner in which employees were being exploited for the benefit of the manufacturer.

The rectification of the conditions exposed by the commission's inquiry dies in co-operation between the provinces in drafting uniform legislation designed to protect the employee primarily, without inflicting too great a restriction upon industrial initiative and removing the profit motive that lies behind such initiation.

In conclusion, Mr. Clark said he stood solidly behind Mr. Stevens, having been attracted to his cause by the fact that it afforded a simple, uncomplicated approach to an entirely new conception of political economy.

EMPIRE PACTS REVIVE TRADE

C. H. Dickie, Nanaimo Conservative, Pays Tribute to Premier for Vision

Confronted with increasing unemployment problems and a rapidly increasing adverse trade balance, Premier R. B. Bennett tackled the problems before him with a determination that has won for him the admiration of all loyal citizens," declared C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate in the Nanaimo Federal riding, when addressing a rally meeting in Mount View High School, Saanich, last night.

He was supported on the platform by W. A. McKenzie and Clem Carmichael, the latter from Vancouver. When Mr. Bennett took office, Canada had an adverse trade balance of $103,000,000. Under his able leadership, the Government, during the past five years, has turned this adverse balance into a favorable one of $150,000,000, or an increase in trade of $250,000,000," Mr. Dickie asserted.

NOTHING DONE
Nothing had been done during the King administration, the speaker said, to offset the tariff barriers erected by the United States against Canadian commodities so that when the Bennett administration went into power, Canada had an adverse trade balance with the United States alone of $365,000,000. Through retaliatory action, this adverse balance had been reduced to $38,000,000, Mr. Dickie declared.

He then passed on to the Empire

Butterfly and Wasp In Deadly Combat

ENTOMOLOGISTS at Harvard University now claim that the New England buckeye butterfly is to be listed in the "killer" class of nature. And to prove their claim they show this picture of a butterfly of that type in deadly combat with a wasp. The scientists say the butterfly is capable of killing wasps and even small birds. The normal diet of the butterfly, however, is milkweed blossoms and nectar.

agreements, and told his audience of how Premier Bennett had gone to London with his vision of a united Empire enjoying the benefits of reciprocal trade agreements. He came back to be derided and jeered, but in 1932, other statesmen throughout the Empire saw the Empire in the same light as Mr. Bennett with the result that out of the Ottawa conference, inspired by Mr. Bennett, came those agreements, which have done so much to build up the recovery of Canada. He illustrated how these pacts had been beneficial to British Columbia in the lumbering industry alone. The exports to Great Britain, he said, had been increased to 400,000,000 feet last year. "That is as much as we shipped to the United States in the belated days," Mr. Dickie asserted.

There was no choice between the two party leaders, Canada's stride forward toward recovery was due to the great vision of Mr. Bennett. Mr. King was a man without vision, and Canada should be proud to have a Prime Minister such as Mr. Bennett who put Canada first, above everything else, the speaker declared.

Mr. Dickie, referring to the C.C.F. party, said there was nothing new in its Utopian scheme. Plato had expounded the same theories 500 years before the Christian era. They were nice theories, but entirely impracticable.

W. A. McKenzie said that Mr. Dickie was the only candidate in the riding who also was a resident of the constituency.

THE C.N.R. DEBT
The speaker criticized Alan Chambers, the Liberal candidate, in connection with his claim that the Bennett administration had increased the national debt by $257,000,000. "He forgets to tell you how the King administration increased the C.N.R. debt by over $400,000,000, and the people of Canada have to stand good for those bonds," Mr. McKenzie asserted.

The Liberals, Mr. McKenzie stated, talked of a nationally-owned bank as though all that the people would have to do when it was established would be to go there and draw on unlimited resources without so much as "asking your leave." There were thirty-six central banks in thirty-six different countries of the world, and thirty of them were privately owned. It was Premier Bennett's policy, the speaker explained, to first test the value of a central bank before experimenting with a nationally-owned one. If the private central bank was a failure, then the other might be tried, but it was only fair that private control should first be tried in the face of experiences throughout other parts of the world.

IMMIGRATION STOPPED
Dealing with the unemployment problem, Mr. McKenzie showed how the Mackenzie King administration had precipitated the problem and aggravated it. From 1922 to 1930, immigrants to the total of 1,187,000 were allowed to enter Canada, despite the protests from various Provincial Governments. During the King regime, 500,000 Canadians went to the United States, he said.

When Mr. Bennett took office, he clamped down on the immigration, but even then the damage had been done. Ninety thousand of the immigrants were on relief by the Winter of 1930, and to add to the difficulty, 90,000 Canadians returned from the United States. In addition, 500,000 young men and women had been thrown onto the labor market after graduating. When discussing unemployment, the speaker said, Mr. King conveniently forgets these things.

SEATTLE, Oct. 10 (AP).—The purse seiner Ethel, with 2,000 salmon on board, was taken in tow today off Alki Point by a harbor patrol boat, with Captain Joe Belanich and his crew of six accused of fishing within the harbor limits, in violation of a city ordinance. They were booked for trial tomorrow.

TWO BODIES RECOVERED

Search Is Continuing for Missing Plane and Its Co-Pilot

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 10 (AP).—With bodies of two members of its crew of three recovered and identified, search by land, water and air continued today for a missing Standard Oil Company air liner and its co-pilot.

The body of Robert S. Allen, the pilot, was removed from the beach of Stansbury Island, at the south end of Great Salt Lake, this afternoon, after fellow flyers had identified it.

A land party that reached the island over the lake bed, drained by the low water, last night removed the body of George O. Anderson, the mechanic of the lost plane, which had been found by other searchers.

While boats dragged the lake for the plane, believed to have made a forced landing on the water, land parties combed the island for the same purpose, and planes cruised over the lake in the hope of locating the body of G. A. Lens, co-pilot of the missing liner.

INTIMIDATION CHARGED HERE

C. J. McDowell Says Liberals Discriminated Against in Government Work

Charges of political discrimination in connection with Federal Government work being carried on in the Esquimalt dockyards, were made by C. J. McDowell, Liberal Federal candidate in Victoria, last night, in speaking at a meeting in the Margaret Jenkins School.

The candidate further charged that men now employed on a certain Federal building project in the city had been advised that unless they voted Conservative at the coming election, the work would be closed down. And in addition, Mr. McDowell declared, some Liberals had been urged by alleged Conservative supporters not to vote for the old-line parties, but give their support to the C.C.F. The speaker said he believed such tactics were meant to weaken the Liberal vote without taking away from the Conservatives.

LOSS OF DEPARTMENTS
Speaking on the same platform in support of Mr. McDowell, Trustee W. T. Strathairn contended D. B. Plunkett had not worked in the interests of Victoria when he allowed two governmental departments to be taken to the mainland, and H. W. Davey denounced the present high tariffs and discredited the value of the Ottawa Trade Agreements. Mr. Davey contended that foreign trade during the last five years had dropped off to the extent of $135,000,000.

The theme of the three addresses was expressed in the conclusion of Mr. Davey's remarks. He said:

CHEAPER MONEY
"If the people of Victoria wish an aggressive member at Ottawa and a Government favoring trade expansion, they will vote for Mr. McDowell and the Liberal party on October 14."

Mr. McDowell told the meeting the Liberal party stood for lower cost of production and cheaper money. He denounced the present system of taxing homes and property for relief, education and social services, saying the costs should be borne by the Federal Government. This, he intimated, would be changed under a Liberal regime.

NO RADIO STATION
Trustee Strathairn deplored the fact that Victoria was the only capital city in Canada that was not on the Canadian Radio Commission network. He charged that Mr. Plunkett had not taken the matter up seriously enough in Ottawa, despite repeated requests from the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Although admitting tariffs were justified in some instances, Trustee Strathairn said the barrier against commercial motion picture cameras and sound equipment was working to the detriment of British Columbia. He explained that recently several big motion picture producers from the United States had come to the city with the intention of making arrangements to make pictures here. High customs duties which would be imposed on their equipment discouraged them, however, he said.

URGES SUPPORT OF C. H. DICKIE

Dr. W. B. Clayton Addresses Shawngnan Electors in Conservative Interest

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Oct. 10.—In the unavoidable absence, through sickness, of W. A. McKenzie, former Minister of Mines, who was scheduled to speak at Shawngnan Lake on Wednesday evening, Dr. W. B. Clayton addressed an appreciative audience in the interests of C. H. Dickie, Conservative candidate in this riding. Dr. C. A. Boyd, president of the local Conservative Association, occupied the chair.

Dr. Clayton registered the indisposition of Mr. McKenzie, who had spoken at Cowichan Station on Tuesday evening, but was unable to address the Shawngnan gathering. The speaker went into the matter of tariffs, stating that no tariff walls had been raised against the Bennett Administration, but that such tariffs had been put on prior to 1930, when the Mackenzie King party was in power. He went on to speak of the Empire trade treaties contracted by the present Government and their favorable reaction, especially in the lumber trade, exports of which to the United Kingdom had increased tremendously.

Dr. Clayton touched on the Bank of Canada, created by the Conservative Government, and compared it with the Bank of England and other national banks. The speaker enlarged on the important issue of unemployment and on the Hon. R. B. Bennett's efforts to relieve the situation under the handicap of the world-wide depression.

It would be financed by Government funds.

Dr. Clayton closed his address with an appeal to the voters to support Mr. Dickie and the Bennett Government in the interests of Canada.

A proposal which has been made to Oak Bay municipality by Heisterman, Forman & Co. to create a new subdivision of Lot 3, Map 74A, has been reported upon to the Oak Bay Council by A. S. G. Musgrave, acting engineer.

In his report Mr. Musgrave says: "I consider it would be necessary to

As regards Pentland Road, which is at present thirty-three feet, I think on careful consideration that an additional seven feet would probably fulfill all the requirements of the municipality, as it will never be a main thoroughfare due to its close proximity to McNeill Avenue.

Concerning Falkland Road, any future widening would require to be taken from the property on the west side of the road, and, therefore, no additional land need be taken off the lot in question. I would like to see the lots not less than fifty-five feet throughout in each case, but I do not suppose the municipality could object to fifty-foot lots if the owners so requested."

THE LIBERAL PARTY

through its leader, Mackenzie King, has publicly notified Japan that it will, if returned to power, accede to her demands . . . That it will virtually accept Japanese dictation for Canada.

Mr. King said, in dealing with the Japanese threat, "We of the Liberal Party do not accept the principle of Protection."

In 1930 he would not protect Canadian workers for fear of provoking the United States and now, in 1935, he would "surrender to Japan."

THE CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT

says Canada will not accept Oriental dictation. Canada must protect her workers and the standard of living of its people against the unfair competition of low cost Japanese labor.

THE PRIME MINISTER

is a true Canadian. Here is a fine example of his "Canada First" Policy. Japan had demanded that Canada change the customs laws and regulations in a manner that would, in effect, place Japan in a privileged position in Canadian markets.

The letter of September 4th, 1935, to Mr. S. Kato, Minister of Japan to Canada, Mr. Bennett as Secretary of State for External Affairs, said: "The unaltered attitude of the Government of Japan, as evidenced in your representations of August 16th, puts directly in issue the right of the Government of Canada to protect the wages of its workers and the standard of living of its people against unfair competition of low cost labor paid greatly depreciated currencies. The Government of Canada is unable to accept any compromise of the basic principle of fair competition which governs its commercial relations and upon the maintenance of which the welfare of Canada depends."

ONLY THE bulwark of a Determined Conservative Policy will stem the Tide of Oriental Trade Invasion.

Lieut.-Col. S. L. Howe, former Provincial Secretary in the Tolmie Government, while a visitor at the Empress Hotel yesterday, declared a union Federal Government was the only solution to Canada's present difficulties.

He asserted that all sane men in the Dominion who understood the principles of sound government and sound business were agreed that the dropping of party differences was essential under the present circumstances. None of them, however, conceived of union government as a permanent institution.

Although he had lived through many depressions, the visitor said, he had never before seen a depression to equal the present one as far as demoralization was concerned.

BEGS WOMEN TO USE FRANCHISE

D. B. Plunkett Addresses Mixed Audience at Conservative Rooms

Maintaining that Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett not only stood behind all his statements, but that he had a constructive and practical programme to offer in the present political campaign, D. B. Plunkett, Victoria Conservative candidate, this evening made a strong appeal to the Conservative Women's Club members to use their franchise in support of the Government party in the forthcoming Federal election.

The meeting was well attended, several members of the extended, present. On the platform with the president, Mrs. Kate Palmer, were Mrs. R. F. Green and Hugh Allan, president of the Conservative Club.

Never had the country experienced a political campaign that had called forth such a confusion of statements as heard from the opposing parties, Mr. Plunkett said. In many ways the campaign was a farce, figures being variously interpreted. While Mr. Bennett backed up his statements, there were others in the campaign who seized every opportunity to use a denail of the criticisms made by Mackenzie King, whom Mr. Plunkett found fault with for wanting to talk about the treaty with Japan before it was settled.

"One would almost think that he was Prime Minister, already in office, to hear him on this subject of the treaty with Japan," the speaker said. Mr. King had a chance to make a trade treaty with Japan when he himself was in office, but he had not. As for Mr. King's criticism of the handling of the wheat trade, Mr. Plunkett maintained that the present situation was the aftermath of the war. All the countries of Europe had raised their tariffs, closed Canada out of the market, and today were producing their own wheat.

While ready to criticize the Bennett Government, Mr. King had given no sign of what he proposed doing if the Liberals went into power. When the present campaign started, both Mr. King and Mr. Woodworth talked a lot about the repeal of Section 98 of the Criminal Code, but as they looked through the country, they had found people averse to this and what it might mean in the destruction of law and order, and now they seldom mentioned the matter.

Locally, Mr. McDowell made great promises and advocated the building of more houses. Who, asked Mr. Plunkett, had introduced the housing plan? Was it not the Conservatives—but for the working man, not for the rich. The Liberals did not seem to remember anything

Pension Commission Chairman Is Here

MR. JUSTICE F. G. TAYLOR, D.S.O.

ACTING chairman of the Canadian Pension Commission, Mr. Justice F. G. Taylor, D.S.O., is in Victoria to hear three special cases, commencing at 10 o'clock this morning in the Postoffice Building.

Mr. Justice Taylor, last night, stated he was pleased to be again in the city and to enjoy the delightful weather here.

about the proposal for a loan to enable fishermen to borrow for the building of permanent decent homes. The C.C.F. talked much about a "planned economy," they never seemed to tell how they were going to accomplish this. Mr. Plunkett thought the Central Bank was functioning quite satisfactorily.

OTHER SPEAKERS
"Mr. Bennett makes a telenote straightforward statement of past performance, of the results produced, and of logically expected results for the future. Mr. King, having a last-minute premonition that he is not going to be swept into office simply because he has been leader of the opposition for the past years, rushes himself to a semblance of activity, but contents himself with criticism of the present Premier and his policies," said Mrs. P. Burden in her well-arranged talk.

Mr. Bennett had seen the advantage to Canada of closer union with the Mother Country. Hence the Ottawa agreements, which had been the means of reviving industry in Great Britain, increased export of manufactured goods from this country to the various Dominions, and increased export of raw materials from this country to the Old Land, she declared.

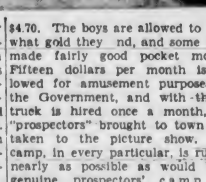

From the disinterested viewpoint of London and New York, summing up the situation from the monetary rather than the political viewpoint, the state of affairs in Canada was considerably better than Liberal criticism would lead one to believe, said Hugh Allen in his short talk.

A short programme of music and recitation was given, those taking part being Miss May Waugh and Miss Gladys Sherrill, piano solos; Miss Doris Fallop, violin solos; and Ernie Impett, humorous songs.

BETTER THAN RELIEF

"It is far better than being in relief," he stated, "and gives a young fellow the feeling that he is working for his board, at least, and is learning something which will be of value to him later. It will be bad, though," he continued, "if the camp is closed down this Fall. We will be given two months' supply of provisions, but what will we do when the snow comes? On the other hand, if we are kept here until Spring, we will have the whole Summer before us, and should make good."

Recently, orders have been issued to build additional cabins, and warmer clothing has been distributed, so that both instructors and students are hoping the authorities plan to keep the camp open for some time yet.

rear guards put up a hard fight at Ambasebat, where they encountered troops from General Maravigna's blackshift left wing.

An Italian corps ran into stubborn resistance at the little settlement of Gendesta, but was able to win control of all important caravan routes and foot-trails in the area, it was stated here.

General Santini and his men have reached Adharabam, south-east of Adgrat, and more than 9,000 feet above sea-level, it was announced.

DEFENDING CAPITAL
ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 10.—Hordes of savage warriors marched out of the mountains and deserts of Ethiopia tonight to throw a vast wall of fighting men about this proud capital.

They marched by tens of thousands, under the command of Emperor Haile Selassie's most trusted generals, as their Government announced a new rain of Italian bombs in the south had killed many of their countrymen.

The fall of Aksum, ancient capital of the Queen of Sheba and storied shrine of the Holy Ark of the Covenant, was announced by the Italian minister, Luigi Vinelli-Gigliucci, who was then asked to leave for Italy by Selassie.

Italy's great bombing planes, said reports which filtered out of Aksum before communication lines were cut, apparently spared that hallowed city, centuries old when Rome was born.

REMOVE RELICS
Muttering maledictions on the Fascist invaders, Aksum's guardian monks scurried out of the city, bearing many of their sacred relics, these reports said.

It was to mystic Aksum, legend has it, that Menelik, son of Sheba and Solomon, fled from Jerusalem bearing the true Ark of the Covenant, and the ten commandments. There, monolithic obelisks, once sacred altars, dot the valley and line the trail to the sacred mountains.

Nine Italian planes, said a Government communication, bombed Gerahel, near Gerioghul, on the southern front, and rained lethal projectiles on the Ethiopian posts of Taffarikatama and Jalmo, killing many. (The latter two towns are not shown on maps.)

(A delayed dispatch from Harar, timed at 9:10 p.m., Wednesday, said the governor of that key city in the southeast had ordered wide breaches cut in the walls to facilitate evacuation, in the belief an Italian drive from the north is imminent.)

The dispatch said 10,000 Hararites, mostly women, already had fled to the hills.

(The Ethiopians there believed a fierce Italian drive, employing tanks, airplanes and heavy bombs, would come from the north when sufficient enemy forces had been concentrated in the vicinity of Jigjiga.)

AIRPLANE CRASHED
The Ethiopian communication also said an Italian plane had crashed at Garasalla, in the north, with two flyers killed and two dying.

Italian infantrymen were reported advancing in the Webbe and Shibe, region, but it was claimed a thousand native Eritrean soldiers had deserted to Ethiopia and were nearing Meake with Italian planes in pursuit.

Fifty thousand Ethiopian troops, equipped with modern arms, were marching to the defence of Addis Ababa under Ras Gugsa, Governor-General of Kafa Province. Twenty thousand more were on their way under the command of Dedjamat Apte Miran, another provincial chief who wears half moon earrings to proclaim his prowess as a soldier and elephant

Women's Workroom Continues to Fill Place in Community

Miss M. A. Wigley Elected President at Annual Meeting—Reports Show Year of Activity and Accomplishment—Plans for Shower

ANOTHER successful year in the four years' history of the Women's Workroom was recorded at the annual meeting held last evening at the Y.W.C.A., and the reports read by the executive and committee conveners showed that the Workroom is still continuing to serve a distinct need in the community life of the city.

Started as an emergency measure to help women, who, through force of circumstances, were unable to compete in the general labor market and were desirous of doing definite work rather than receiving charity, the Workroom has gone on from strength to strength, its payroll varying from month to month, but the standard of work improving. Under the presidency for the past three years of Mrs. Alan Morkill, the executive has worked faithfully and well, and expression of her appreciation was made by the retiring president, in whose place Miss Wigley was elected, by acclamation. The other officers are as follows: Secretary, Miss Lola Maxwell; treasurer, Mrs. R. R. Taylor. Sub-committee conveners: Finance, Miss Wigley; shop, Mrs. A. Gillespie; workroom, Mrs. J. W. Gibson; distribution of used clothing, Mrs. Denton Holmes; registration, Mrs. Sills; employment, Mrs. C. Swayne, and executive, Mrs. A. H. Pease and Mrs. P. B. Scurrah. Mrs. Sills, manager of the Workroom, reported that the average weekly payroll for the year had been seventy-one, about thirty of these women coming every day and thirty-two half time, with several only coming one or two days a week. There had been as much work as could possibly be handled, except for a brief lull during the Summer holidays. About seventy orders had been filled each month, the store had been kept supplied and a great deal of mending done. Mrs. Sills, in speaking of the work done by the women, emphasized the benefits derived by the workers in being able to do something creative, which encouraged them and helped them to maintain a more cheerful and healthy outlook on life.

"It is so hard," she said, "to help people who are wrapped up in unhappiness and worry, but when they become interested in their work and companions, and their minds are as rest about the money necessary for their day's food, it is easier for them to cheer up." One of the workers had told her that it was impossible to realize how many persons were being saved from complete breakdown by the help and sympathy they had from the Workroom.

CONVENERS' STATEMENT

Mrs. J. W. Gibson, the Workroom convenor, gave a detailed account of the year's activities, telling of the work done, the use made of the clothing and material for which there is no further use and which have been donated by kind friends. To those who had made it possible to carry on the Workroom, she, on behalf of her committee, expressed heartfelt thanks. Mrs. Alex Gillespie, convenor of the Women's Workroom Shop, reported that the total sales for the year had amounted to $1,375.12; expenses, wages and light, $822.92; leaving a balance of $552.20, which had been handed over to the treasurer.

FINANCE REPORT

Miss M. A. Wigley, chairman of finance, reported that since the last

WE all "love a parade," and we women are particularly susceptible to the parade of fashion, with lovely fabrics, furs, lace, and the new glittering trimmings that make gowns glitter.

There are gowns suggesting the gay nineties, those which go back to the Italian renaissance, and many that give us fleeting hints of other periods, but which are all 1935 in their styling and the materials of which they are fashioned. Illustrated are three formal gowns which glitter alluringly. It shows

The "cocktail" dress, sometimes worn for dinner, is an increasingly important and wearable fashion. The one at the right has a new look—which is also old. outstanding and valuable works, have also identified themselves with the Workroom committee, although not officially representing any society. She mentioned with appreciation the assistance given by the twenty-three women who have been found occasional jobs outside the Workroom. Mrs. Denton Holmes read the report of the distribution committee, parcels having been sent to the Equitable Friendly Help, the Salvation Army, the Y.O.N., the Salvation Army and the Red Cross Society.

The adoption of the conveners' report was moved by Mrs. Walter Perry and seconded by Miss Crease. Mrs. P. B. Scurrah moved a hearty vote of thanks to the retiring president, Mrs. Morkill, for her splendid work in connection with the Workroom.

McClung, Fernside Road, the affair being held under the auspices of the committee organized by Gordon Head women in aid of raising funds for carrying on the making of layettes to be distributed by the Sanich Health Department as needed.

This is the third consecutive year that the committee, headed by Mrs. Ursula Ley and Mrs. Walker, has carried on this work. It was due to the efforts of the newly-formed Gordon Head Girl Guide Association that such a large number of persons attended. During the week the Guides called at all the homes in the district and presented invitations to the women.

NURSING SUPERVISOR

The supervisor of nurses for the Sanich health department was present and spoke of the value of the work that the committee is doing. She emphasized the need of the community's co-operation in assisting the needy members of the community. Mrs. McClung spoke of the value of neighborliness and co-operation and of the power of exchanging of thoughts, which led to the discussion of the possibility of getting back library privileges. Mrs. Peter McNaughton spoke briefly on this phase of Mrs. McClung's address, and told of the need of books for the children of school age who could read.

The rooms and tea table were beautifully decorated with Autumn flowers, and pouring tea were Mrs. E. H. Mitchell and Miss Bruce, a retired health nurse. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. R. W. McClung and Mrs. Horace McClung for their hospitality.

Mendelssohn's oratorio, "Elijah," will be rendered in the First United Church on Tuesday, December 10, according to the decision of the First United Church executive. The rehearsals are well under way and W. C. Pye, the conductor, is most anxious to have a full attendance each Tuesday evening.

The practices commence at 8 o'clock, and all singers intending assisting are requested to attend the rehearsal in the schoolroom of the First United Church next Tuesday.

It is hoped to have a chorus of 120 voices and all who took part in the "Messiah," given last December, are invited, also any new singers with good voices. There is still a need for sopranos and tenors to balance up the chorus. Members are asked to bring their copies with them, although a limited number will be on hand for those who do not already possess them.

It is hoped to render this work with the same artistic standard as previous oratorios given in the First United Church, and to bring to the city a very distinguished singer for the important role of "Elijah," but definite announcement will be made later. The rehearsals are very much enjoyed, with the able assistance of Mrs. C. C. Wain at the piano.

Marketing Act Is Theme of Talk by K. C. MacDonald

Intricacies of Question Affecting Producer and Consumer Discussed at Women's Institute Conference—Dean Clement on Adult Education

On an address on the Marketing Act, Hon. Dr. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, gave to the delegates at the South Vancouver Island Women's Institute conference yesterday afternoon, a resume of the part played by the Federal Government with regard to the regulations pertaining to the various provinces.

He said that "highway robbery" had been practised in the past, to the detriment of the producer as well as the consumer. He explained that the Marketing Act, under which the special Market Boards had been established, were directed in the interests of both the grower and the purchaser.

Dr. MacDonald referred to the Oriental problem in British Columbia, which was causing a great deal of worry to the Department of Agriculture, as the Orientals refused to respect the marketing regulations.

SOMETHING CONSTRUCTIVE
"I am by no means positive," he said, "that the present legislation is by any means perfect, but I am confident that out of it will come something workable and constructive."

With reference to the part played by the Federal Government, he explained that the East had only a partial comprehension of Western problems, particularly the Oriental question.

The minister cited the marketing of tomatoes and milk as examples of the difficulties in putting into effect the Marketing Act. If more people were to be induced to go on the land, every effort must be made to see that they were given every protection in their business and the fair dealing to which they were entitled.

DEAN CLEMENT
The subject of "Adult Education" was discussed by Dean Clement, of the University of British Columbia. He told the institute members that the university hopes, in a year's time, to have put into effect a universal extension scheme.

Dean Clement traced briefly and concisely the progress made since the beginning of the century with regard to development of the Western part of Canada. Responding to the call, "Go West, young man, go West," an average of 40,000 men and women had turned to British Columbia during the years 1900-15 and the sons and daughters of these settlers were the ones now facing the question of education, employment, etc.

He was of the opinion that the present situation could not be solved politically, or indeed, by any group, but rather through individual effort, with a measure of Government assistance.

TRADE QUESTIONS
The question of supply and demand, the biological aspects of agriculture, population, and trade and agriculture policies were touched upon by the speaker in a most interesting way. He made special reference to the agriculture policies of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, and asserted that one of the reasons for the lessening of trade between Canada and Great Britain was that the latter had become a "protectionist country."

Since her self-sufficing scheme was put into effect, she was taking less from the world market.

Mrs. T. C. Robinson, the president, thanked both Dr. MacDonald and Dean Clement for their interesting talks.

The election of officers will take place this morning.

Declaring that there is solid foundation for feeling optimism among rural people of the province, J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, told the conference at the morning session of some of the factors contributing to that spirit.

PRICES GOING UP
In all parts of British Columbia crops are satisfactory, and there was a definite improvement in the trend of prices. "One year ago, for example, butter was featured in stores in this province at three pounds for thirty-five cents, but in yesterday's paper we see that the special attraction at one of our stores is three pounds of butter for thirty-three cents. Usually the prices of butter, bacon and eggs can be regarded as a barometer of the price structure for our staple products of the farm."

The speaker paid tribute to the farmers and women of rural British Columbia for their share in creating the varieties of plants which produce much of the province's agricultural wealth. He spoke of the steps taken to cultivate various food plants now in common use, including sweet potatoes, tomato, field beans, pumpkin, squash and the Jerusalem artichoke.

Mr. Munro also referred to the fruit, bulb and flower-growing experiments which have brought fame to Vancouver Island, noting that many of these new plants were produced, not by farmers as a hobby, but by practical growers and agriculturists, and he urged the women to do all in their power to encourage boys and girls along these lines.

Mrs. V. B. MacLachlan, superintendent of women's institutes, also spoke, suggesting various matters which might be considered by the institutes.

Anglican Young People

LOCAL COUNCIL

A large number of young people gathered at St. Paul's, Esquimalt, on Tuesday evening for the inauguration of the 1935-36 officers of the council. The simple service was conducted by Rev. T. R. Lancaster, of Christ Church Cathedral, and Ernest Gray, Ralph Freethy, Lenora Trickett and J. O'Connell received office as president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, respectively.

Rev. Alan Gardiner, of St. Paul's gave an inspiring address on the sacraments. At the conclusion of the service, a rally was held in the church hall, when J. H. Aylin acted as chairman. Ralph Freethy, Victoria delegate to the Dominion conference, gave an interesting account of the conference and humorous sketches of his journey. Games, group acts and community singing brought the programme to a close, followed by refreshments. Ray MacLachlan, president of St. Paul's, spoke a few words.

Ucluelet, Long Beach

Novelists Are Topic Of Lecture

The outstanding genius of Henry Handel (Henrietta) Richardson was the subject of special comment by Miss Margaret Clay, city librarian, in the thoughtful and informative talk on "Some Leading Women Novelists" with which yesterday afternoon she opened the Y.W.C.A. Reading Club's Winter season.

Author of one of the most notable novels to come recently from the press, viz., "The Fortunes of Richard Mahony," Henrietta Richardson is an Australian, educated in Melbourne and Leipzig (Germany), who adopted the masculine pseudonym for the publication of her first book, "Modest Guest," published in 1908.

"In order that it might stand on its own merits," Miss Clay pictured her as a woman of astonishing perspicacity and understanding of her fellow-being, particularly girls, as an original, brilliant and painstaking writer who prepared her "backgrounds" with meticulous care; as something of a recluse, who carded little for club life, but who preserved a healthy poise with tennis and swimming.

OTHER WOMEN WRITERS
Other women writers singled out for special mention were Nan Michelson, who uses the classical Greek period for the background of much of her writing; Mary Webb, whose novels of Shropshire life sprang into fame a few years ago; Willa Cather and Edith Wharton, the two gifted American authors; Enid Bagnold, author of "National Velvet" and other vigorous stories of English racing life; and Dorothy Richardson, defined as "probably the greatest living English woman novelist."

Miss Clay, in her preamble, discussed some of the characteristics of women novelists, noting that women writers up to the present had suffered a man-made tradition, the rules for novel writing, laid down by men before women entered the field, sometimes being unwieldy for the latter. Women novelists, she maintained, would have to remake these rules for themselves.

Mrs. Edwin Tomlin presided, and Mrs. J. E. Lane moved the vote of thanks.

OXFORD BEGINS TRAINING
LONDON (C.P.—) The university boat race is more than six months ahead, but Oxford has started preparations for breaking the long run of Cambridge successes. Two crews have already started training under the supervision of P. Haig Thomas, who coached Oxford for the last race, and H. M. Mosley, last year's president.

Bridge Tea Is Planned

Plans for the annual bridge tea to be held by the Victoria Connaught Seamen's Institute were made at the monthly meeting held yesterday afternoon at the institute headquarters, the president, Mrs. W. R. Sayer, in the chair. The tea will take place on Wednesday, November 30, at the institute rooms, Superior Street, under the auspices of Mrs. D. R. Kar, convenorship of Mrs. D. R. Kar, Mrs. Albert Griffiths to have charge of the bridge; Mrs. Vernon Thomson, convenor of the tea committee, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd-Young.

It was reported that during the past month 200 men and fifty-three apprentices had visited the rooms and seventeen ships had been visited by the institute committee.

FEATHER IN HER HAT

by JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS

Ann, Robert and Rita, three college mates, get into a jam in Washington. Bill, a newspaper correspondent for a New York paper, whom Rita knows, meets them and stops at the Globe office to pick up Mollie Winslow, with whom the girls are to stay until they find quarters. Just before Bill calls a mysterious voice phones Mollie that Rita is being murdered in the reflecting pool at the Lincoln Memorial, but when she hangs up Rita is laughing inside her office. She tells him nothing, but asks Rita to come home with her. When Mollie reaches home with the girls and Rita finds Rita's daughter, she is shocked. Rita is a member of the Department of Justice, and when at midnight they are preparing to go to the airport for the arrival of Lee Monday, Rita's friend, who is making a blind flight from the Pacific Coast, and Rita has not shown up. Mollie tells of the phone call just as Rita enters. She says, "Could you wait that voice did not belong to someone you know?"

CHAPTER V

Leaving the Washington Monument, Bill and Ann got into the car. "Now where?" he asked, kicking the starter. "I'm afraid I've seen too much—too many buildings—already. Then Ann remembered something. The Japanese cherry trees!" she cried. "I've simply got to see them." Bill tapped his knuckle on the windshield. "The Tidal Basin—James!"

Watching Bill's profile, Ann wondered what he thought of her. In fact, he had thought of her all since they left the apartment. Nothing he had done or said had revealed anything more than the casual sort of interest any girl would have shown in any girl who had commandeered his services as a sight-seeing guide. She said her arm along the back of the seat and let her fingers rest lightly on his shoulder. Bill kept his eyes on the road.

"What is it you don't like about me, Bill?" "What?" His eyes came around for a moment, then looked ahead again. "You're all right, as far as I know," Bill said. "You don't care for me particularly, though." "Don't I?" "Do you?" Bill grinned. I haven't played that for years. I don't even remember the rules of the game. Ann bit her lips and looked away. She liked Bill—how much she was afraid to ask herself, for though she had never seen him until last night, she had felt from that first meeting at the railroad station that she had known him for a long time. It had seemed to her then that they were beginning as friends—as old friends who understood each other and needed no preliminary adjustment of temperaments. . . . But if this feeling had been mutual, as she had wanted to believe, there had been no indication of it on Bill's part today.

The silence got Bill at last. "Mighty quiet, Runt," he said. "What's on your mind?" "You wouldn't be interested," Ann said, casually. "O.K., Baby," he said as he stopped the car at the basin. They walked to the water's edge. "Love-ly," Ann breathed. She stepped back and gazed down the long row of cherry trees observing how they leaned over the mirror surface of the water, as if, she thought, to gaze down at their reflections. "It must be gorgeous when they're in bloom."

Bill sat on the ground with his back to a tree. "Don't mind if I rest, do you? I was up all night looking for Lee Monday and I'm weary."

"Perhaps I'm mistaken," Ann reminded him, quietly, "but I seem to remember that you were to meet Mr. Monday at Mollie's apartment this afternoon."

He shook his head. "That's off. I saw him for a minute this morning at his hotel. He had a heavy date this afternoon, but you're to meet him at Runbrecker's tonight."

"That's nice," Ann smiled. She sat down on the grass, tapping the trunk of the trees as she passed. The third tree she circled and made her way back by the same process.

"Fascinating pastime, that," Bill said. "Your own invention?" She did not answer, but dropped down beside him, suppressing a smile. "I suppose you know Lee Monday and I am old friends, Bill?"

Bill's head jerked around. "No, didn't know. I thought you'd never seen him." That's why I gave him Mollie's address last night. Where did you know him?"

Ann lay back on the grass and gazed up at the blue sky. "Can you keep a secret?" "I can try," he leaned forward, a cupped hand to his ear. "Quite soberly, Ann said, 'Lee and I slept in Mollie's apartment last night.'"

Bill straightened up, staring. "You ought to be paddled for talking like that," he said, suddenly catching her arm, pulling her up and forcing her to look at him. "Listen, Runt, you're being plain crude. Snap out of it!"

Ann winced. "Quit it—you're hurting!" She made a futile effort to free herself. "What difference does it make to you whether I'm crude or not? You don't even like me!"

His hand came away as if her arm had been hot metal. "No," he growled. "I don't even like you. So what?"

She was amused and pleased by his anger. So this, smartly. She had taken a small card from her purse and she held it out to him.

When they reached the apartment, Rita and Carl were in earnest conversation. There had been another mysterious telephone call.

"I suppose now you'll say it's forged," Rita said. "Bill looked at the face of Bill Monday's card, turned it over and with some difficulty read it aloud: 'Sorry it happened, of course—and glad. Hope to drop in about four this afternoon and personally express my gratitude for a perfect night—L. M.'"

The blood was slowly creeping up Bill Hudson's neck, into his face. Watching Ann was suddenly afraid to prolong the little comedy.

She told him, briefly, of Lee's unexpected arrival at the apartment and of their pathetic efforts, dead as they were, to carry on a conversation.

"Rita says we looked like two children who had fallen, exhausted, in the middle of a game. She left us sitting there on the couch all night, if you please. Said she didn't want to embarrass Lee. We don't know what time he went away this morning."

Bill was a full-minute adjusting himself to this new and obviously true version of her story. Finally he burst into laughter, his head shaking in that funny way it had when he was really amused. After a while he looked down at the card. "But where did this come from?" "With a dozen orchids—real ones—this morning," Ann said, pointing the finger at Selma. The interesting question is, why did he? He turned to Bill. "What I was about to tell you may answer the question. . . . The Senator has given Fuhrman his notice."

"You're not serious?" Bill said, incredulous. "That's why the Senator sent for me this afternoon," Carl explained. "I had to do the dirty work—give Fuhrman his notice, escort him off the estate and advise him to stay away from all members of the family Runbrecker."

"They had a row, then?" Bill asked, rather eagerly. This was Bill Hudson, the newspaper man now—not after a story he knew he would never publish.

Carl hesitated a moment, then. "In confidence—yes. He and Deane had a run-in. I didn't get the details."

"But why should Fuhrman Wells call Mollie and report his own murder?" Ann wanted to know. "I don't know that he did," Carl replied, with caution. "But for the sake of argument, let's assume that Fuhrman is another Dr. Cheezlee. It be a shrewd move to create the impression that he, too, was an intended victim."

Ann stared at Carl with parted lips, but Bill seemed unimpressed. He suddenly wheeled around, picked up his hat and moved toward the door. "Let's go, Carl. It's late and these girls need time to powder their pretty noses."

When Rita came back from the door, she found Ann leaning in the bedroom doorway, staring at the floor. "By the way," Rita said, "Boy Friend Lee came on schedule time and I gave him a song and dance about you having an important business appointment. I also said you counted on seeing him at Runbrecker's tonight. . . . Now say I'm not a pal."

Ann gave her head a little toss to express her lack of appreciation of such a demonstration of friendship. Rita went into the bedroom and began to undress. When she looked up Ann was still standing in the doorway.

"Say—" Rita demanded, "what's wrong with you, anyway? You can't let all this talk of murder get on your nerves, Ann?"

"Not moving," Ann said. "It's not the talk, Rita. It's something inside of me. I've felt it all day. Abruptly she turned and moved toward her friend. Let's pass up this dinner at Runbrecker's, Rita."

Rita laughed. "Not even for you, darling. If Selma wants a battle she's going to have it." (To Be Continued)

Through a long silence their eyes held, Ann's lips quivering with a smile that never quite formed. Bill grave and thoughtful and obviously troubled. Then Bill got to his feet and walked to the water's edge and in a cigarette. Ann did not move. When at last he slowly strode back, Ann looked up at him.

"I want to give you some good advice, Ann. . . ."

She nodded, politely attentive. "Steer clear of newspaper men. They're a wild, faithless pack and if you ever made the mistake of falling in love with one, you'd be unhappy the rest of your life."

It was a long while before Ann nodded. Then she got to her feet and brushed off her frock and smiled at him. "All right, Grampa," she said. "I'll try to remember that—but it may do no good."

When they reached the apartment, Rita and Carl were in earnest conversation. There had been another mysterious telephone call.

"I suppose now you'll say it's forged," Rita said. "Bill looked at the face of Bill Monday's card, turned it over and with some difficulty read it aloud: 'Sorry it happened, of course—and glad. ## "AND YOU'RE THE BOY CAN DO IT"

AUGUST 15th. I arose at 4 a.m., exercised one and a quarter hours, bathed and set out for my seven miles walk to my office, quite a while before daylight. At Yonge and Bloor the street lights were put out. I was bounding along on my Mathews Guild Moccasin-type shoes at five miles an hour. A police officer bobbed out from behind a billboard. "Good morning, Doctor," he waved, "fine morning."

"Yes, fine for a seven mile walk," "And you're the boy can do it," he returned.

Why did he say that? Because he and all others who regularly are on the route I take from Westminster Hotel on Jarvis Street near Dundas to my office on Vine Avenue, seven miles distant, more or less, see me doing it every morning in 90 minutes, even in this hot weather. Only those who doubt who have not seen me sweeping along, with long, swinging, forceful strides, arms swinging, chest up, every muscle tensed, breathing to the depths of my lungs, my legs moving as smoothly as if my joints were on roller bearings, unconscious of the least effort at any time during that seven miles walk. They doubt it because they cannot do it. They cannot do it because of their wrong living habits, chiefly their wrong foods and feeding habits.

"They would reform their feeding habits, cutting out heavy acid-forming, denatured foods and beverages and substitute Roman Meal, Bokus-Puddy or Lishus and Kofy-Sub, and eat freely of green vegetable salad, fruits, milk and Roman Meal bread or other baked Roman Meal products and take reasonable exercise they too could do it."

The above is from a photograph of Robt. C. Jackson, M.D., taken in his 77th year.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—Prevent Cutting—

When sore and painful Piles distress and upset you, and salves give insufficient or only temporary help, and wish is to avoid operation: let it be at once by HEM-ROID—the internal remedy for piles!

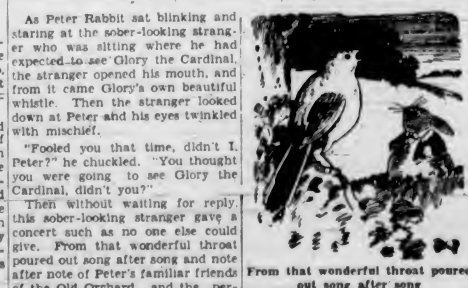

Dr. J. S. Leonard was convinced early in his career that the cause of Piles was internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find a remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

Pile sufferers everywhere are benefiting by Dr. Leonard's internal treatment, so why doubt or delay longer when MacParlane and Vancouver Drug Stores and other good druggists say, "No matter what kind of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your piles safely or money-back." (Advt.)

Little Stories for Bedtime

The Joker of the Old Orchard

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

As Peter Rabbit sat blinking and staring at the sober-looking stranger who was sitting where he had expected to see Glory the Cardinal, the stranger opened his mouth, and from it came Glory's own beautiful whistle. Then the stranger looked down at Peter and his eyes twinkled with mischief.

"Fooled you that time, didn't I, Peter?" he chuckled. "You thought you were going to see Glory the Cardinal, didn't you?" Then without waiting for reply, this sober-looking stranger gave a concert such as no one else could give. From that wonderful throat poured out song after song and note after note of Peter's familiar friends of the Old Orchard, and the performance wound up with a lovely song which was all the stranger's own. Peter didn't have to ask who the singer was; it was Mocker the Mockingbird.

"I think you are very nice looking indeed," replied Peter politely. "I've been finding out this morning that you can't tell much about folks just by their looks."

"And you've learned that you can't always recognize folks by their voices, haven't you?" said Mocker. "Yes," replied Peter. "Hereafter I shall never be sure about feathered folks unless I can both see and hear them. Somebody told me once that down in the South you are the best loved of all the birds. Is that so?"

"That's not for me to say," replied Mocker modestly, "but I can tell you this, Peter. They think a lot of me down there, and it is all on account of my voice. I would rather have a beautiful voice than a fine coat."

Peter nodded as if he quite agreed, which, when you think of it, is rather funny, for Peter has neither a fine coat nor a fine voice. A glint of mischief sparkled in Mocker's eyes. "There's Mrs. Goldy the Oriole over 'there," said he. "Watch me fool her."

He began to call an exact imitation of Goldy's voice when he is the best loved of all the birds. Is that so?"

Mocker and Peter laughed, for they thought it a good joke.

THRILLS FEATURE DOMINION STORY

George O'Brien Plays Leading Role In "Hard Rock Harrigan"—Irene Hervey In Cast

What is said to be George O'Brien's outstanding screen achievement opens today at the Dominion Theatre. The film, "Hard Rock Harrigan," has the Colorado River Aqueduct as a background and tells a brand new type of story in a brand new way, crammed with action and alive with thrills and plenty of excitement.

The story deals with a feud between a husky hard rock driller, portrayed by George O'Brien, and his tunnel boss, played by Fred Kohler.

The talented Irene Hervey appears as George O'Brien's leading lady, who operates the camp commissary. Miss Hervey's charm and beauty lend a welcome contrast to the rugged and untamed background, where the "hard rock" men fight nature in the raw.

Exciting tunnel scenes are marked with thrills and when George O'Brien is caught in a cave-in, which imprisons him with a companion in an inaccessible chamber, shivering tenseness rises high. With an ulterior motive in mind, Fred

On the Screen

Capitol—Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "Top Hat."

Columbia—"Against the Law," starring John Mack Brown.

Dominion—George O'Brien in "Hard Rock Harrigan."

Little Orpheum—"Treasure Island," featuring Jackie Cooper.

Playhouse—Ann Harding in "Biography of a Bachelor Girl."

Kohler braves untold dangers to rescue O'Brien.

How the star attempts to repay his erstwhile foe and win the love of Miss Hervey, provides much of the entertainment value of the picture.

A huge pile of "plate" old composed of coins made to look like pieces of eight was in use for a scene in "Treasure Island" at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, when the property man noticed that the stacks of coins were beginning to diminish. "What's happening to the treasure?" he inquired, looking suspiciously at bulging shirt fronts and coat pockets in the costumes of Jackie Cooper and his young friend, and "The Bandwagon" fame, the Johnny Dinmore. Just then Director Victor Fleming took Jackie by the arm to rehearse a scene—and a flood of the "prop gold" fell on the floor. The film is now at the Little Orpheum Theatre.

COLUMBIA Dangers and thrills in the everyday life of police ambulances are excitingly and accurately depicted in "Against the Law," a Johnny Mack Brown action picture. This smiling screen hero will be seen in this new outdoor action story at the Columbia theatre now. Sally Blane, lovely blonde, is co-starring with Bradley Page and Arthur Hohl, noted character actors, in support.

PLAYHOUSE As an example of THEATRE exceptional talent among "bit" players, E. H. Griffith, director of "Biography of a Bachelor Girl," co-starring Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery, now at the Playhouse Theatre, pointed out three on his set at one time. They are Minerva Buckle, the famed "Paquette" of radio; Skins Miller, of the Miller and Mack vaudeville team; and Al Hill, whose sensational prison story, "Easy Pickens," won him fame several years ago.

CAPITOL With the exception of THEATRE one player, the complete cast of "The Gay Divorcee" is seen in "Top Hat." RKO-Radio's Pictures' latest musical comedy, now at the Capitol Theatre. The stars are Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, and the supporting cast includes Edward Everett Horton, Helen Broderick, Erik Rhodes and Eric Blore. Miss Broderick, of "Fifty Million Frenchmen" fame, is in "Top Hat," the new Irving Berlin supplied the music.

To Leave Victoria For Creston Post

REV. R. E. M. YERBURG

WHO has been assistant at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, for over three and a half years, has been appointed as parish priest at Creston, B.C. in the Diocese of Kootenay, where he will take up his duties on November 2. Mr. Yerbarg is a native son of Victoria, and was ordained as deacon on February 21, 1932, and as priest on December 21, 1933. ## NOEL CUSACK TAKES LEADING ROLE IN PLAY

Could you fabricate an alibi that Scotland Yard couldn't destroy? If you knew your sweetheart was a murderer, who had killed a man for your sake, would you give him up to justice?

These questions the audience will have an opportunity to answer for themselves in one of the most exciting and intricately staged dramas that the Victoria Little Theatre Association has produced to date.

Noel Cusack, whose excellent work is familiar to many theatregoers in the city and who was rewarded for the best individual woman's performance in the recent British Columbia Drama Festival, plays the feminine lead.

The play, "Ten-Minute Alibi," the forthcoming Little Theatre Association's show to be produced in October 16 at the Empire Theatre, has a cast made up of such well-known local amateur actors as Bert Bailey, William Lambert, Dan MacDonald, H. F. Hewitt, Arthur Kerr and H. J. Davis.

Jane Dixon Says:

WIVES WHO PLANT THEMSELVES IN WELL-KEPT HOMES WITHOUT ATTEMPTING TO CONTRIBUTE THEIR SHARE TO THE HAPPINESS OF THE HOUSEHOLD, DESERVE LITTLE SYMPATHY.

How I wish every wife, who makes a practice of sitting heavily and accepting a living as though it were her due instead of a partnership in which she is pledged to contribute her share, could read the letter appearing in this column today.

The plaint is from a husband with one of those "gimme" wives. She has forgotten how to cook, because she lacks the ambition and the good-fellowship to practice cooking.

She has isolated herself and her husband in their home because she fails to make home a happy possession, which she should be proud to share with her friends and her husband's friends.

She is a laggard in love and in marriage, and she will be fortunate, indeed, if she doesn't wake up some day to find that she's lost touch—not to mention a husband who would be glad to carry on had he received a proper amount of inspiration and co-operation.

Dear Miss Dixon: Your recent article certainly struck a responsive chord. I sympathize, deeply, with the poor devil who wrote that note.

I married a woman older than I, as he did. Our marriage was a success as long as I did not make a success of myself. I left the farm at the age of twenty, with very little schooling. When I met my wife, she was considerably better educated than I. My wages were eighteen a week then. I was known by few people and knew very little myself.

But I had ambition. I've been married twenty-two years, the same length of time as the man who wrote the other letter. We have one child. Our child is spoiled. Knows nothing of the value of money, friendship, or anything else.

My wife is a fairly good housekeeper, but can't cook. She used to know how to cook, but apparently she's forgotten. We haven't a single couple who visit us, and I would not, for the world, invite any of my friends to visit us—not any more.

In my wife's opinion, I haven't done a single thing that was right in the past twenty-two years, although I've increased my earning capacity many times, and have improved my education. We could have our own home, plenty of friends, a garden, plenty of flowers—almost anything reasonable we wished, if we could only agree on what it is we want. But we can't. I have to get along with 700 persons in my business organization, of which I happen to be the head. If I was so terribly difficult I couldn't co-ordinate 700 individuals and have the confidence of them all. Every one, from the top to the poorest paid clerk, brings his personal trouble to me.

WIFE THREATENED TO LEAVE

If I had started the cave man tactics twenty years ago, we might have gotten on. Most of us men are too darn busy trying to get ahead. We are too good to our women.

I have no interest in any other woman. One is enough for me. In fact, one is too much. My own child thinks, because of the teachings of its mother, that I'm an awful reprobate. The other day that child came to me and said: "Dad, if you weren't playing golf, say so anyway, because I told mother you were."

My work is the only thing that interests me in the least. I hate to go home. I feel, of course, should the right woman come along and show a little interest in me, in my work, tell me I'm not such a bad fellow—one never can tell.

My wife has told me repeatedly that we have nothing in common, and that if she had the money, she would pull out. Some day I'm going to call her bluff!—"13."

Answer: I've printed your entire letter, "13," because it tells the story so much better than I possibly could tell it.

Wives, who plant themselves in well-kept homes and take, take, take, without making an attempt to contribute their share to the happiness and the progress of the concern, deserve little sympathy.

To "call the bluff" of this woman would be to do a real service not only to other husbands who are burdened with such wives, but to all women who are trying to do an honest and a constructive job of wifehood and of home-making.

TIGHT CREDIT DETERS CANADA

Percy E. George Says Its Restriction Is Vital Election Issue

Control of Canada through restriction of credit by a handful of financiers is the real issue of the Federal election, Percy E. George, Stevens Reconstruction party candidate, told an audience at Quadra Street School last evening.

Declaring that this was responsible for continuation of the depression, Mr. George pointed out that England had made great strides toward recovery through circulation of more money, easier credit and lower interest rates. This was also advocated by the Reconstruction party.

He described how twelve financiers controlled $9,855,000,000 in Canada through 150 companies, and had their strings around the economic bloodstream of the Dominion. This meant that only $22 per person was in circulation, compared with $44 in England and $46.40 in the United States.

Four major companies controlled the manufacture of farm machinery within high tariff walls, which resulted in the farmer having to pay more for his machinery than he could get for it. He related that farmers received 25 cents per bushel for tomatoes in 1933, while one of the huge canning corporations paid a large dividend to holders of preferred stock.

CRITICIZES PARTIES

Mr. George regretted that personalities were replacing issues in the election campaign, but felt that he could also take a hand. He accused D. H. Plunkett of never lifting a hand to help Victoria, the Conservatives of stealing many planks from the Reconstruction party platform, and the King Government in 1930 of paying no attention to unemployment while it members piled up a debt of $185,000,000.

Dealing with the C.C.F., Mr. George said that Rev. J. S. Woods, worth, C.C.F. leader, openly declared that force might have to be used to bring the people of Canada to the right way of thinking. Explaining the Reconstruction party programme, the candidate asserted that Canada's gigantic natural resources would be used for the benefit of 10,000,000 Canadians, instead of for profit to a comparative few.

A. S. Averill stated that half the Reconstruction party candidates in British Columbia were pledged to consider Social Credit with the assistance of Major Douglas.

He believed that Social Credit, coupled with the Stevens' party, would offer security for everybody. He maintained that the C.C.F. had adopted several of Major Douglas' ideas, but believed in taking away industries from those who controlled them in direct contravention to the ## commandment "Thou shalt not steal."

MONEY WITHDRAWN

"There is just one thing wrong with Canada today," said Mr. Averill. "Over $300,000,000 has been taken out of circulation in the past five years, causing an economic crisis. Lack of purchasing power is causing all the trouble," he asserted. An accounting board would be established by the Reconstruction party to determine the amount of money in circulation, and the output of all factories would be computed, he related.

A voice from the audience asked: "How about Mr. Stevens and the bankers?"

"What a man did yesterday does not matter. Every man has a right to change," the speaker replied.

"Send Mr. George to Ottawa and in three years' time you will have no underconsumption of goods in Canada," Mr. Averill concluded. Herbert Boothman presided.

KILL CROWS TO LEARN HABITS

Marked Birds Doomed to Slaughter to Carry Out Experiment

EDMONTON, Oct. 10 (P)—Hunters on the Prairies need not be surprised this coming week-end if their kill includes a very black crow with the stern feathers painted a brilliant yellow.

Prof. William Rowan, of the University of Alberta, known in the scientific world for his study of the migratory habits of birds, is carrying on a new experiment with crows. A shipment of seventy-five crows will be sent to Winnipeg later this week, and somewhere west of Manitoba's capital, far from familiar landmarks, the birds will be released.

PAINTED AND BANNED

Before leaving here, the birds will be subject to the administrations of a body-finishing expert in a local automobile plant. Each crow will get the stern-feather coating of yellow. Also, each bird will be banded.

The regular season for the migration of crows is over and the professor hopes to determine if the birds released in Manitoba will, like the early starters, wing their way to warmer southern climates for the winter. He is not very hopeful, believing the crows will stay close to the spot where they were released.

Hunters are asked to shoot on sight and return the leg bands here. Cash prizes will be awarded for the return of the bands.

Geneva Scenes in Latest Edition of News at Dominion

ETHIOPIAN delegates pleading for peace before a session of the League of Nations at Geneva, Switzerland, and war clouds darkening over Europe are to be seen in the current issue of The Colonist-Universal Newsweek which will open today at the Dominion Theatre.

Continental diplomats confer in frenzied efforts to avert conflict. Baron Aloisi, representing Mussolini, remains firm in his statement of Italy's demands. Meanwhile, in a timely newswire interview at Middleburg, Va., Gen. William Mitchell explains the tremendous value of Ethiopian territory as a base for aircraft during any conflict affecting Northern or Eastern Africa.

Other important events to be seen in the current reel include the take-off of Felix Wautaux, brave young aviator, on an attempted flight from Floyd Bennett Airport, N.Y., to Kaunas, Lithuania; the whirlwind play of the Green-trees quartette winning the United States polo championship from Aurora in an extraordinary game at Westbury, L.I.; a daring motorcycle-led leading the pack over a slippery hundred-mile course to break the world's record for the distance, at Langhorne, Pa.; spooners in a park at Kansas City, and a benevolent judge who wants the spot dedicated to their cooling, and a rock slide of thousands of tons blocking the scenic Gorge Troy route at Niagara Falls, New York.

SEARCHING FOR SEATTLE BANKER

W. W. West Missing for Nearly Week—May Be Victim of Amnesia

SEATTLE, Oct. 10 (P)—Missing since last Thursday afternoon, W. W. West, fifty-one, a department manager at the First National Bank and secretary of the Seattle Clearing House Association, was sought over the city and state to night. Both police and private detectives have been working on the case, police disclosed.

His wife said today that she feared he had had a nervous breakdown or was a victim of amnesia, as he had complained of being "very tired."

"When he becomes himself, I know he will communicate with us," she said.

He had been with the bank for thirty-two years. J. W. Spangler, bank vice-president, and H. C. MacDonald, cashier, both spoke highly of him today and said they were at a loss to account for his disappearance.

A Dutchman had a clerk who stuck him for a rise of wages. Said the Dutchman, "Hans, I dinks I do if you die?"

"Oh, well, of course, if I died you would have to get along without me."

COMMUNISTS TO SUPPORT C.C.F.

Time Not Yet Ripe for Soviets in Canada, Victoria Audience Told

Communists speakers urged 150 persons present at a public meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium last evening to vote for Professor J. King Gordon, C.C.F. candidate here. It was not pretended that this action had Mr. Gordon's approval. The C.C.F. candidate was cited to the meeting as saying that such support would cost him votes in Victoria, and as refusing to support a "united front."

Two hours of a two-and-a-half-hour meeting were devoted by two speakers, Robert Leases, of Vancouver, and H. H. Kragge, of Esquimalt, to an explanation of Communist aims. In this it was conceded that Canada was not yet ripe for establishment of a Soviet form of government. As the next choice, both speakers urged the meeting to vote C.C.F., as the nearest approach to Socialism.

Advised as a meeting to reply to Mayor G. G. MacFarlane, K.C., the meeting actually heard little reference to his words, who was dismissed from the discussion as of Fascist tendencies.

COMRADE STALIN

"We Communists have made ourselves very clear that we are not out to set up a Soviet in Canada. Comrade Stalin has said that the masses of the people are not yet ready to storm the citadels of capitalism. Our main slogan in this campaign is 'Make the Rich Pay.' We say there should be a moratorium on the national debt, to save $100,000,000 in interest yearly, and a graded income tax on the rich, to produce $124,600,000," Comrade Leases concluded.

"It is open season on Communists," Comrade Kragge submitted. "The capitalist classes are making bullets covered with a little Christianity. Mr. McGee has opened his meeting with 'Onward, Christian Soldiers,' the battle song of the Christians. That is one of the duds being shot against Communism. It still makes a hit with people who still have illusions about Christianity being a means of filling the stomach," he added.

William White, chairman, invited a collection in aid of Malcolm Bruce, Communist candidate in Vancouver-East, described as a proletarian riding. Communist publications and photographs of the Corbin riots were distributed at the door. The meeting was orderly.

ADVANCE CLAIM FOR AMOUNT DUE

Parfitt Bros. Seek to Recover in County Court Action on Mechanics' Lien

In the County Court yesterday, the action of Parfitt Bros. vs. Victoria Cold Storage and Terminal Warehouse Company was commenced after a very long delay. The case is one in which the plaintiff company seeks to recover the amount owing on the cost of construction of the plant. The case will be continued this morning at 11 o'clock, when Duncan MacBride, the manager of the plant, will be a witness.

The claim put forward by Parfitt Bros. is for about $27,353, with added interest. This represents a hold-back of 10 per cent on the contract price which was provided for, but which has been protected under a mechanics' lien on the plant. The history of the plant was under review in evidence read into the proceedings yesterday by David Tait, representing Parfitt Bros. The evidence of H. G. Brown, the promoter of the scheme, was the main part of that submitted.

A. D. MacFarlane, K.C., appeared for the defendants in the action, who are represented by D. P. W. Maunsell, solicitor for the receiver appointed at the instance of the debenture holders.

J. L. WATSON IS NEW PRESIDENT

Becomes Head of University Extension Association of Victoria

J. L. Watson was elected president of the University Extension Association, at the annual meeting held last night in Girls' Central School. He succeeds J. A. Heritage, who has occupied the post for the past two years.

Miss J. Cann was re-elected vice-president, and Miss M. Barker named secretary. All members of the executive committee were re-elected by acclamation. The association began its thirteenth season last night with a lecture by Prof. J. H. Soward, of the University of British Columbia.

The financial report indicated a deficit for the current year, which reduced the bank balance to approximately $89.

New McLaughlin Buick Tested Here

The latest 1936 McLaughlin Buick, just received at the showrooms of Davis-Drake Motors Ltd., was given a thorough test yesterday afternoon when press representatives took a stock model 44 up over the Malahat Drive. The run amply demonstrated the sensational advance in this new General Motors' product with modern styling combined with flashing performance. A new streamline body by Fisher, further progress in engine design and exceptional riding comfort were among the notable features. Over trying stretches of highway, where construction crews have rendered the surface rough, up and around sharp curves the five-passenger car swept with power in reserve. Ease of handling under all conditions was noticeable. The McLaughlin Buick-44 is one of a series of four new models, now on display at the showrooms of Davis-Drake Motors Ltd.

VOTES FOR ORIENTALS

Sir,—In several newspapers I have observed with interest many letters in favor of giving the Oriental power to vote in this country. There are Orientals and Orientals. To begin with, has not the native of India under the British Raj got a prior right over any other Oriental to a vote in a British country like Canada? Has he not earned his right to the franchise? To differentiate between Orientals: Who of these Orientals are forcing the issue for the power to vote? The Chinese and the Japanese. How many pure-bred Europeans are allowed the vote in their countries in either Federal or municipal matters? Is it not a fact that Europeans slowly but surely have been replaced in their government and business positions, by the Chinese and Japanese, who acquired the technicalities from them? How far can a European travel in China without being molested? How many similarities are there in their mode of dress and in their customs? Who are those who have studied despatchedly the Chinese or Japanese languages, habits, creed, etc., of the Oriental? Do the Chinese and Japanese practice birth control? I think not. Who would the United States, out of the proceeds thus acquired, agree to pay to His Majesty for the use of Canada fifteen per cent in respect of said seals taken in and about Robben Islands for the use of Canada.

The said contracting parties have paid to Canada large sums of money for each year since 1911. In the year 1914 Canada appointed a Commissioner to inquire into and pay compensation to persons affected by the Canadian public works above question, some very amusing some very interesting and still some not quite so, therefore I sincerely trust you will be kind and gracious enough to publish this one of mine to the piquancy of the situation.

Last month the president of the B.C. Temperance League gave an address to the W.C.T.U. at Victoria, in which he intimated that Sir Edward Beatty, president of the C.P.R., was accused by self-interests in suggesting that British Columbia would do well to revise her liquor laws. In fact, quoting from The Times report, September 18, he said: "Sir Edward is not interested in the social welfare of the people of Canada, he is only interested in increasing the dividends of the C.P.R."

Very nobly and courageously spoken; but how astute it strikes me as extremely unlikely such a thing could possibly be, because the social welfare of the Canadian people is vitally important to the C.P.R. and still more so to Sir Edward himself personally.

CANADA CANNOT STAND ANOTHER 5 YEARS OF BENNETT'S BROKEN PROMISES

Promises and Failures—that's what Bennett gave Canada... That's what Canada would get from him again... Five more years of Bennett would ruin Canada.

1. BENNETT PROMISED to end Unemployment—HE FAILED!
Unemployment has increased 400%
2. BENNETT PROMISED to keep Canada free from the dole—HE FAILED!
Instead of giving work and wages, he spent $593,000,000 on relief.
3. BENNETT PROMISED to bring prosperity to Canada—HE FAILED!
Canada has had misery, hardship and strife.
4. BENNETT PROMISED to pay old age pensions in full from the Federal Treasury—HE FAILED!
The Provinces still pay a large share.
5. BENNETT PROMISED to "blast" his way into the markets of the world—HE FAILED!
Canada's trade has been cut in half.
6. BENNETT PROMISED to protect the Canadian Consumer—HE FAILED!
He raised the taxes and forgot the Consumer.

Canada has learned that Promises and Failures are all we can get from Bennett.

New York Professional Drops 160-Yard Shot for Eagle to Finish With Great 67 in $5,000 Louisville Tournament—Victor Ghezzi Second With 68—Burton Tops Britishers

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10 (AP).—Pitching a 160-yard approach straight into the cup for an eagle, two on the sixteenth hole, Paul Runyan, White Plains, N.Y., Professional Golfers' Association champion of the United States, scored a 67, four under par to take the lead in the $5,000 Louisville Open Golf Tournament here today.

Johnson was three over par on the first nine with a 38, but equalled the course record, coming in with a 31, five under perfect figures.

HOYLE-BROWN WILL BATTLE THE CLUBMEN

Last Season's Men's "B" Champions to Make 1935-36 Debut Tonight

Hoyle-Brown, city and Vancouver Island men's "B" hoop champions last season, will open their drive for another title this evening at the Victoria High School gymnasium, when they attack up against the Tillamook in the feature attraction on the three-game programme being presented by the Victoria and District Basketball League.

Doo-Dads and Hudson's Bay, men's "C" quintettes, will swing into action in the opening clash billed to commence at 7:30 o'clock. Rival squads are reported to have a number of new players added to their playing rosters, and prospects for a good battle look bright.

Acas and Regents, intermediate "A" quintettes, are scheduled to clash in the middle game on the card. With a number of pre-season practices under their belts, the boys are reported to be in excellent shape and ready for action.

HOYLE-BROWN STRONG

Hoyle-Brown are reported to be carrying an even stronger quintette than during their championship drive in the 1934-35 season, and today are figured as strong favorites to retain their honors. However, with such fighting aggregations as West Saanich Mercantile, formerly West Road, Lake Hill and Tillamook, battling for the championship, the defending champions will face plenty of stiff opposition in their title chase.

Sonny Jones to Battle Carroll in Ottawa Ring

The Never Never Hair—When the Lamas of the Taling Monastery take holy orders their hair is done up into an eternal knot. They take a vow of celibacy and swear never to undo their hair as long as they live. As the hair grows the knot mounts higher and higher.

New River—The New River at Lauderdale, Florida, "shortest, deepest and most beautiful narrow winding river in the United States," was created in a single night, according to an old Seminole tradition which is worthy of belief. The site of the river was formerly a tropical jungle. One dark night the Indians were startled by a thundering noise. Emerging from their huts the following morning they found that a mighty river had burst forth overnight to flow majestically through the jungle. Subterranean rivers have been known to burst to the surface suddenly to assume a course henceforth.

DUTCH GIRL IS TO BE THREAT

Eleanor Holm Issues Warning Note About Young Mermaid to U.S.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 10 (AP).—Eleanor Holm, pretty backstroke swimming champion of the United States women's Olympic team, sounded a blue note today over the 1936 prospects—as blue as those she puts into song with her husband's dance orchestra.

"Look out for Holland," warned the trim wife of Art Jarrett. "They have a broad-shouldered girl, Wilhelmina Den Ouden, a possible winner of three events, quite enough to take the Olympic title away from our team at Berlin if the other places are evenly distributed."

"Right now I would say the American team can be sure of only one event, the 100-metre backstroke."

Miss Holm holds the record of 1 minute 18.3 seconds for that, and she intends to defend it at Berlin, because the first United States girl to compete in three Olympics and then step out of the amateur class—probably into a moving picture career.

The Dutch girl, fourteen at the time of the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles, finished only one second behind Helen Madison, of the United States, in the 100-metre free style event, and Miss Madison had to set a new record to beat her.

MARIGOLD XI TO MEET CAPITALS

Juvenile Soccer Teams Will Clash At Heywood Avenue—Cubs to Battle Esquimalt

Victories over Esquimalt Meat Market in their opening fixture last Saturday, Wimpy Capitals, smart juvenile soccer eleven, will battle Marigold Aces, last year's league champions, tomorrow morning at Heywood Avenue. W. J. Cull will referee.

Victoria West Cubs, who gained a draw with the Aces in their first game of the season, will meet Esquimalt Meat Market at Central Park. W. J. Cull will referee.

Victoria West Cubs will be selected from Renfrew, Paige, Davies, Bishop, Rowell, Kennedy, Whittle, Minnie, Murdoch, Prendergast, Malcolm, Hyatt, Booth, Ord, Edmonds and Conley-Brown.

After a couple of minutes of savage fighting Patrick started a left hook for the body, and Lenhart threw a right hand that landed squarely on Patrick's jaw, dropping him flat on his back for the full count. It was more than five minutes before Patrick was revived.

Victoria United-Royals Match Is Canceled; Twin Bill Set

WITH the New Westminster Royals unable to travel, Friday night, tomorrow's scheduled Inter-City Football League fixture with the Victoria United set for the Royal Athletic Park has been canceled, according to an announcement made last night by J. R. Jones, secretary of the Victoria committee, of the British Columbia Football Commission. No official ruling has been given on the game, but it is expected that Victoria United will claim the points.

With the inter-city match off the boards, J. R. Jones announced that a First Division twin bill will be played at the local enclosure. In the curtain raiser the league-leading Victoria City aggregation will oppose Esquimalt, with J. C. Dowds as referee. In the afterpiece, Victoria West will meet the Saanich Thistles. T. M. Robb will handle the whistle. The first match will start at 7:30 o'clock. No Second Division games will be played.

HUDDERSFIELD WILL MEET FIFTH PLACE SQUAD IN FEATURE

Pace-Setters to Find Bitter Opposition in Tomorrow's Soccer Engagement—Sunderland Will Clash With Grimsby Town—Leading Scottish Expect to Hold Positions

BERT TILSON

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—Huddersfield Town's one-point margin at the top of the English Football League may disappear when the results of Saturday's games are known.

The powerful Sunderland team has a splendid opportunity to take the lead, as it meets Grimsby at Town, bottom dog of the division.

On the other hand, the unbeaten Huddersfield team will find bitter opposition at Middlesbrough, holder of fifth place in the table.

Derby County, tied with Sunderland in the runner-up position, is another contender for leadership honors, but is away to Sheffield Wednesday, English cup holder, and a tough battle is in prospect.

Manchester City is rearranging its forward line for the match at Blackburn. Tilson, robust centre forward, moves to inside left and his place will be taken by Owen, a young reserve player. Arsenal has apparently recovered championship form and will play Chelsea at Stamford Bridge. The battle between the rival Londoners is expected to draw a crowd of 70,000.

IRISHMAN SIGNED

Leeds United has signed on Robert Brown, left half of Derby City in the Irish League. It is said the United paid $7,500 for Brown, who will play against West Bromwich Albion, Saturday.

Leicester City and Southampton, leaders in the Second Division, play away from home. The City, in its efforts to return to senior football, will put up a great fight at Bury, while Southampton has an equally hard fight against Nottingham Forest.

After Bristol Rovers' defeat by Crystal Palace at Stapleton Road last week it is unlikely they will be a match for Reading, as the biscuit-makers are playing on their own ground.

In the Northern Section, Tranmere Rovers, the leaders, visit Wrexham. Prospects for victory are not particularly bright, in view of the fact that the Rovers, playing at home, were held to a draw last week by Rotherham United.

SCOTTISH LEAGUE

GLASGOW, Oct. 10 (AP).—Underdogs of Scottish football have an opportunity to steal the spotlight in Saturday's list of First Division fixtures. Celtic, Aberdeen and Rangers, the leading home teams, are all opposed by clubs upon whom fortune has smiled infrequently this season.

The leading Celtic are at home to Clyde. While the Shawfield Park side is only two runs removed from the bottom of the league ladder, the Dons go to Aberdeen, babe of the division.

Another Glasgow Derby sees Third Lanark and Rangers face each other at Cathkin. Third Lanark is hoping for a victory similar to that of two weeks ago when they smothered Aberdeen's unbeaten record.

St. Mirren has lengthened its lead at the top of the Second Division.

SAARZEN EXPECTS SOME HIGH CARDS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 10 (AP).—Take it from Gene Sarazen, there will be some high scores carded on the tricky Twin Hills course when the top-ranking shotmakers get down to business in the National P.G.A. tournament here a week from today.

"The medalist's score?" he parried as he looked down a misty fairway, "I'd hate to guess. Wait until some of those long drivers get personally acquainted with those trees."

Here for a week's practice on a course that "requires a lot of knowing," Sarazen had little to say on the three or four pros who looked best to him, because "they're all good these days, but the old Hail (Walter Hagen) will be as hard to handle as any."

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (AP).—The International Hockey League today formally admitted Pittsburgh to its membership. A schedule will be drawn up next week.

AMATEUR BOARD WILL MEET HERE

B.C. Branch of A.A.U. of Canada Annual Meeting Tomorrow At Y.M.C.A.

Delegates of the British Columbia Branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, will gather tomorrow evening at the Y.M.C.A. for the annual meeting of the provincial organization, according to an announcement made yesterday by Gordon Woodridge, president.

Important items on the light agenda will include a discussion on the reduction of the price of amateur cards and the matter of allowing professionals in one branch of sport to play as an amateur in another sport. The resolutions, even if passed by the provincial body, must first be sent to the Dominion body for ratification before becoming valid.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX MORRISON

Most golfers have prized possessions of their clubs. Mine is an old aluminum putter I've had since my caddy days. It has a suggestion of loft to the face, which makes it easy to line up a putt.

I also have a plain steel head putter. This is used where the greens are fast. At times, like every other player, I tighten up so that my putting stroke becomes pretty much of a stab.

Then I switch to the aluminum putter. This makes it easier to swing smoothly. This combination of putters is good for all players.

Henry Picard found it so good that he has gone away to England with my prized putter. He used it during a practice round the other day. It brought back his putting touch.

CAGE CHAMPIONS TO BE UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Sponsors of Blue Ribbon Quintette Withdraw Support

Dominion Titleholders Will Be Under New Colors When They Start 1935-36 Campaign—Announcement Made Public Yesterday Morning—Many After Team Sponsorship

Blue Ribbons, the name which has flashed across Canada's basketball battlefield for the past three years, will be no more. In a letter made public yesterday morning by J. A. "Barney" Barnwell, president and manager of the famous local quintette, and local representative of the Blue Ribbon, Ltd., the announcement of the withdrawal of the sponsorship of the Dominion titleholders was made known.

Playing members of the squad were notified of this action at a camera meeting held at the Victoria High School Wednesday night at the conclusion of which there was no statement forthcoming to the press. It was learned yesterday that Dave Nicol, who acted in the capacity of trainer last season when the squad amassed their way to their second Canadian crown in three seasons of campaigning, was made the new manager of the team, and Albert "Red" Martin, rangy wing forward, was voted in as secretary.

MARKING TIME
At present the players are marking time waiting for a decision which will be given in the very near future concerning who will be the new sponsors. Home Oil Distributors, Ltd., have approached the squad about supporting them throughout the 1935-36 season, but no definite decision has been reached. Manager Nicol announced yesterday that the boys have a dozen offers and therefore careful consideration will have to be given before any decision is reached.

The letter from Barnwell to the team follows:
"Blue Ribbon Basketball Team, Victoria, B.C.
"Dear Fellows:—The writer hereby tenders his resignation as your manager. Lack of time through pressure of business prohibits him from continuing any activities in connection with basketball. Loss of time devoted to basketball has been detrimental to my own business and private interests.

"Following recommendation of the writer to our directors I find it necessary to advise you that the company does not wish to continue sponsoring the team. Providing that amateur regulations are adhered to the funds on hand, $806.29, less commitments for this season, being surplus for 1934-35 season operations, is available to new directors of your team to operate independently under another name as they may see fit. Should you reorganize independent of a new sponsor an additional amount of money, up to $1,500, inclusive of the above, may also be made available to you if required to complete the present season; this at the discretion of our company. We do not wish any advertising whatever of our products to be associated with the team when reorganized.

"Our company was pleased to accept the writer's and Mr. P. Moore's proposition for the original sponsorship of the team as an amateur team needing financial assistance and as an effort in the public interest.

Champion and Louis Meet

Jimmy Braddock, world heavyweight champion, is pictured here shaking hands with Joe Louis, the man who may yet take his crown away. This scene may be repeated next year should plans for a Braddock-Louis bout go through. Braddock has stated he thinks he will stop the Brown Bomber, who has marched undefeated through twenty-five professional fights and stepped very close to Braddock's throne when he knocked out Max Baer. Already he is being hailed as the "Uncrowned Champion."

GREENBERG IN PLASTER CAST

Tigers' First Baseman Has Wrist Encased—X-Rays Disclose Fracture

DETROIT, Oct. 10 (P).—Hank Greenberg, the big first baseman of the world champion Detroit Tigers, fretted today at the delay to his vacation caused by a plaster cast encasing his left wrist, fractured a week ago in the second game of the series with the Chicago Cubs. The third set of X-rays of the wrist disclosed the fracture last night. Previous photographs, made by Greenberg after Greenberg's collision with catcher Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs in the seventh inning, had not disclosed the minute cracks. Dr. William E. Keane, Tiger physician, said Dr. Keane said the injury was not serious, and that the wrist would be "as good as new" after six weeks of treatment. He paid tribute to the courage of the Detroit first-sacker, who played two innings of baseball after incurring the painful injury.

He derived a measure of consolation, however, from the information that he would not be handicapped by the injury when another baseball season rolls around.

FLIGHT.

by W. D. TIPTON
and J. H. MASON

THE PRINCIPAL CHANGE IS THE SUBSTITUTION OF A PROPELLER FOR THE AUTO CLUTCH AND TRANSMISSION.

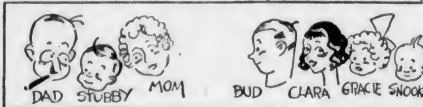

THE main reason why the auto engine has not been used for flying is its weight. Equipped with the necessary reduction gear, which corresponds to the auto transmission, and the propeller, with radiator and cooling water it weighs just about twice as much as the average airplane engine. This means that where a given airplane equipped with a modern aircraft engine of 80 h.p. could carry three persons, the same airplane with a 80 h.p. auto engine would carry two.

The chief argument for the auto engine is its low price. An 80 h.p. auto engine, ready to install in an airplane, will cost about $200, whereas the aero engine will cost five times as much. If the modern aero engine were built in as large quantities as the auto engine, say 1,000-per-day, its cost would compare favorably with the auto engine.

Auto engines are becoming lighter and more reliable, and when they have been developed to a point where they compare more favorably with the aero engine in weight and the ability to operate continuously at a high power output it will be time to give serious consideration to adopting for flying the same engine that powers the motor car.

Of course, no one expects to see the auto engine replace the aircraft engine in the higher power brackets. There is, however, a definite field in the class of airplanes requiring not more than 100 h.p.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

TO HAVE AN ITCH FOR something is to be possessed of a great desire for it.

Intrinsically, the object sought may be consequential or not; at the moment, however, it looms imperatively in the inclination.

It is intriguing to trace how this expression came into being.

Itch is a good old English word which has always indicated that ticklish, uneasy sensation in the skin which filled the person so affected with an overpowering longing to scratch the area involved. It is this sense of longing which has survived uppermost and emphatically in the metaphorical application of the word, which, by the way, dates back thousands of years.

So, we have, among other figurative usages, the phrases to have itching ears, found in the Bible in the sense of longing eagerly for news; to itch for gold or to have an itching palm, the latter being used by Shakespeare, with the significance of a great longing for money, and the simple general itch to do or possess any particular thing, which is just a great longing to accomplish or own something.

THE ORIGIN OF CARDS

To most people a deck of cards is a jumbled mass of pasteboards with painted pips and medieval figures. A mysterious something called luck, chance or hazard seems to govern their chaotic distribution. Few understand the true spirit and philosophy of cards, which is that of strife and struggle for existence, where the capture of a trick is a symbolic gesture signifying the capture of the enemy. The knowledge of the origin of cards will throw a flood of light on the true meaning of leads, plays and bids.

It is the height of naivete to imagine, as stated in various books, that cards were "invented" by a favorite of the mad King of France, Charles VI, in 1382, or, more romantically still, by a concubine of a Chinese emperor who lived about 1120 A.D. Games based on the capture of men or tricks are an ancient social institution, already well established when Romans idolized their experts and teachers of the Tesserian art (backgammon). Although practically unknown in Europe until the early fifteenth century, cards can be traced almost directly to the ancient games of Hindu nobles, and, through them, to still earlier games of Chinese, Assyrians, and Egyptians.

All these games imitated war, and their tactics, consisting of the capture of men and their leaders, reflected as closely as possible the tactics of organized warfare. It was only natural that the principal pastime of the ruling class should mirror their chief occupation, which was war. Cards and chess are blood cousins, descending through a long evolutionary process, from the same ancestry. Both chess and bridge consist of a series of tactical moves or leads with men and pieces, or rigidly defined rank, having for their object the capture of the enemy. They have leaders and they have mass.

The underlying spirit of cards, their philosophy, so to speak, is the "struggle of suits." Every bid and every bid is simply a phrase of the struggle of suits that starts after each deal, to end in victory or defeat. Viewed in this light, contract bridge bidding attains the dignity of strategy where the opposing sides maneuver for the best position or bid; the various plays that culminate in the winning of honor, length, and ruffing tricks are the mobilization and actual battle of the partnership. Through arrangements with Mr. Culbertson and the Bell Syndicate, The Colonist has secured a limited supply of these authoritative pamphlets. They are available for distribution to readers who are interested in bridge.

Copies may be obtained by presenting the accompanying coupon at The Colonist Circulation Department. Readers residing outside of Victoria may obtain copies by sending a self-addressed envelope bearing a two-cent stamp. BRIDGE COUPON

An ace-queen combination, known technically as the "major tenace," sometimes wins two tricks, sometimes but one. The declarer in today's hand quite naturally felt relieved when he found that his ace-queen surely would win two tricks. He was so happy, in fact, that he stopped thinking and lost his contract.

TOOK BOY AND CALLED POLICE

Story of "Kidnapping" Case Is Given in City Court—Remanded to Tuesday

Charged with unlawfully and forcibly seizing and holding Robert Christianson, fifteen-year-old son of John Christianson, 128 St. Lawrence Street, Jack Harris and Hugo Tews were arraigned yesterday in the city police court. The case is one that falls under the kidnapping section of the Criminal Code.

The offense charged is that the accused and others took the boy, on the evening of September 26, to the home of Harris and telephoned the police to investigate complaints against his behaviour.

According to evidence, Robert Christianson was among a band of boys who were said to have thrown paper, rocks and other rubbish onto the property of those complaining. Moreover, it was alleged, the boy persisted in calling "seas" at those charged when he passed their homes, or saw them on the street.

LONGSHOREMEN'S TROUBLES

The two accused and Stillwell and Eastwood, who are charged with having aided in holding the boy, are working longshoremen. It was disclosed in court yesterday, while the father of the boy is a striking longshoreman.

When the boy was asked by Gordon A. Cameron, counsel for the accused, in court yesterday, why he called these men seas, the youth, who is a student of the Victoria High School, replied, "Well, aren't they? I called them that because they are, and my father is not a sea."

When Mr. Cameron asked the accused, if he learned that in high school, Magistrate Jay interrupted with the statement: "Do not blame the school; blame the parents."

FOUND BOY IN HOUSE

For the prosecution, which is being conducted by C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, the boy's father told of having been aroused just after going to bed with the information from Harriet M. Connor, a neighbor, that the boy was in the house of Jack Harris.

When Mr. Christianson reached the Harris home, there were police officers present, and they told him to take the boy home.

In his evidence, the boy denied that he had thrown stones at the home of Mr. Harris. He admitted that he had on occasion thrown rubbish into the grounds.

Hugo Tews, who is of Polish birth and has not yet taken out his naturalization papers in Canada, testified that he had found his place littered with rubbish and was seeking to find who had done it. He had been joined by others, and they had finally noticed the boy Christianson coming with some other boys. They had captured him, and the boy had pleaded to be released and said he would not throw anything more into their places.

It was denied that Mr. Harris had anything to do with the taking of the boy into his place. Mr. Tews stated that he had not actually seen the boy throw rubbish.

POLICE OFFICER'S ACCOUNT

Constable H. Mercer, who went to the Harris home on call, said that the four men charged were in the house when he arrived. Mrs. Harris stated they were having trouble with the boy, and that he had been throwing things on the veranda.

The boy denied this. Mrs. Harris said she saw him do it. The boy's reply was that his word was as good as hers.

When the constable asked the boy his name, the latter was impudent and said he did not know that he would give it. "The other rats know it," the boy added.

Mr. Harris had told the officer that he only wanted the boy warned.

Other witnesses testified to having seen the boy throw things onto the properties. Mrs. Harris said that she heard the boy say to Mr. Yewa on one occasion, "Come on, you Russian rat; I'll finish you now." The boy was holding a stick in his hand at the time.

The boy, she testified, called "Rat Harris," "Rat Tews," etc., as he passed the various houses. She saw the boy throw a rock onto the premises. She heard it fall. Mrs. Eastwood also testified to hearing a rock fall, thrown by the boy.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday next in order to allow Mr. Cameron to ascertain whether he wished to call Constable George Greenwood to testify to facts on some previous visits to the locality.

What Today Means

"LIBRA"

If October 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The danger period are from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m.

This day should be auspicious for all forms of sports. The Hunter's Moon is due to shine so bright that it is likely to attract the sportsman's quest. For the sentimentally inclined Romance should flourish. This may be an exceptionally good day for any business of a mechanical nature, and engineers, architects and skilled mechanics are likely to find this favorable for any new undertaking. Greed is liable to be the underlying cause for most of this day's troubles, so while it is said that possession is nine points of the law, be careful how you apply this notion on this date. If used liberally it might cause complications. Should you attend any friendly gathering be on your guard against being drawn into a conversation consisting principally of unkind remarks regarding one of the other guests. The Golden Rule will be a mighty good precept to follow. Married and engaged couples, as well as those ready to assume matrimonial obligations, must be careful not to permit some self-interest or desire to cause them to display irritation or impatience, if they would avoid a quarrel.

If a woman and October 11 is your birthday, you probably have the gift of using the needle with exceptional skill. In culinary matters you possibly show a touch of genius. If the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, you are not likely to have any trouble in winning and holding one. You ought to have all the attributes a successful housekeeper and wife needs to win an enviable reputation. As a hotel or restaurant manager, interior decorator, seller of objets d'art, dietitian, painter or writer you may feather your nest in a highly satisfactory manner.

The child born on October 11 when it reaches preparatory school age will possibly require careful supervision to prevent its acquiring either careless manners or method of speaking.

If a man and October 11 is your natal day, you probably are endowed with an excellent mathematical or mechanically inclined brain. Engineering, architecture, bridge building, mining, music or literature are among the mediums most likely to furnish the field from which you will reap the richest rewards.
